Roosevelt Has Slight Edge, Final Gallup Survey Reveals

SPRINGFIELD GREETS ROOSEVELT—These thousands of persons turned out to greet President Roosevelt as he stopped in Springfield, Mass., briefly en route to Boston, where he delivered a major address.

Landslide Victory Possible

Gov. Dewey's Hopes For Presidency Lie In Pivotal States

DR. GEORGE GALLUP, Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 5—The final 48-state institute survey on the presidential race, completed during the past week, shows President Roosevelt finishing with 51.5 per cent and Gov. Dewey 48.5 per cent of the civilian vote.

This margin of difference between the candidates in popular votes does not rule out the possibility of a substantial victory in electoral votes for President Roosevelt. In fact, a shift of only 1 per cent of the popular votes in just two states—New York and Illinois—could result in another Democratic sweep in electoral votes.

Early election returns will be scanned most carefully in the group of 12 pivotal states where neither candidate is shown leading in today's poll by more than 1 per cent. The hopes of both candidates rest in these states with 180 electoral votes. They are: Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Oklahoma, Oregon, Idaho, West Virginia, Delaware, New York, New Mexico, Illinois and Missouri.

DEWEY'S CHANCES

Dewey's hope for victory lies in the fact that only a small shift in his favor in the pivotal states would give him enough electoral votes to win.

If the electoral votes for President Roosevelt in his 18 sure states with 165 electoral votes are added to those in pivotal states where he leads by a slight margin, his total is 292 electoral votes, as compared to 239 for Gov. Dewey.

It takes 266 electoral votes to win. The final balloting in the poll showed President Roosevelt gaining a slight lead in Pennsylvania, and Gov. Dewey retaining a slight margin in New York state. The accompanying table gives the Dewey figure in New York as 50 plus. In terms of fractions of a per cent his lead in the balloting was actually 50.5 per cent.

The Institute's job is to report the facts as it finds them regarding the relative strength of the two candidates in each of the 48 separate state elections. In drawing conclusions from the facts presented, readers and political analysts will have to make their own allowance for two important factors:

GI VOTE UNCOUNTED

First, military regulations do not permit polling of some 8,000,000 servicemen of voting age, of whom an estimated 3,000,000 will cast ballots, or about 6 per cent of the expected total vote for the country. This survey takes no account of their vote, which could add to the Roosevelt margin up to

Superfort Raids Lash Singapore And Sumatra

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—B-29 Superfortresses thundered a mighty double strike at Japanese power today, hitting Singapore naval installations and the second biggest airplane fuel source in the Far East.

A communique from the 20th Air Force which flies the air giants on their worldwide missions called bombing results "good to excellent" both at the former bulwark of British sea power on the tip of the Malay peninsula, and at the Pangkalan-Brandon oil refinery on the north coast of Sumatra.

The primary blow, in "substantial force," was against dockyard and repair facilities at Singapore, which the Japanese are understood to have converted into the chief base of their navy in the south.

B-29s BOMB SINGAPORE. B-29 Superfortresses bombed dockyard and repair facilities at Singapore yesterday in the longest daylight mission ever flown by military planes. A big oil refinery was hit at Sumatra.

The presumption was strong that a main purpose of the Singapore attack was to hamper the refitting of Nipponese warships which may have escaped in that direction from the great naval battles in Philippine waters.

That theory was supported by the language of the communique which mentioned two direct hits on a "Japanese ship that was in the drydock for repairs." Other direct hits were reported on a control house at the largest drydock and "other vital points." Bombing there was visible.

FROM INDIA BASES

The flight, from India bases, was reported by the 20th Air Force as the longest daylight mission ever flown by military planes. The only longer one—and that by only a few miles—was the August 10 night blow by the same bomber command against the Pladjoe refinery at Palembang, Sumatra.

At least one bomb dropped square on the refinery in the Sumatra strike, the communique said. The 20th Air Force described Pangkalan-Brandon as the second most important high octane gasoline source in the Far East, probably exceeded only by the Pladjoe refinery hammered in August.

Only "weak" fighter plane opposition was reported. Antiaircraft fire was called "moderate" over both targets, and none of the American craft was reported lost in either strike.

The headquarters of the big bombers said nothing about Japanese radio reports of "enemy planes" in unspecified numbers scouting over the eastern seacoast of the main Japanese home island of Honshu.

Most of the eastern seacoast of

PAC Urged As Keeper Of Peace

UAW Head, Here, Suggests Continuance To Fight Isolationism

By WELLINGTON WRIGHT.

R. J. Thomas, of Detroit, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, favors a post-election organization of the Political Action Committee of the CIO in order to prevent reactionary and isolationist groups in the United States from sabotaging the peace.

Thomas, secretary-treasurer of the PAC, is in Atlanta to visit the Bell bomber workers, whose union is the strongest local of the UAW in the south. He spoke to the Bell workers at Marietta yesterday afternoon, and last night was the guest of union officers at a private dinner at the Piedmont hotel. He expects to leave for Washington this afternoon.

REACTIONARIES STRONG

In explaining his attitude about the political future of the PAC, Thomas said:

"Most people would be surprised if they knew how strong the reactionary interests are in many places. While I have given very little thought to the purely political aspects of the PAC in the postelection period, my idea now is that we should continue it with the purpose of preventing a repetition of the fiasco of 1919 and 1920, a time when reactionary, isolationist elements wrecked the peace and made the present world war inevitable.

"My fear is that if the American people permit the same minority groups to wreck the peace that will follow this present war, then we are opening the way for a third world war.

PAC CAN DO MUCH

"I believe that the PAC, if properly organized, can do much to prevent these forces of reactionary isolationism from wrecking the peace. For that reason, my idea is that we should keep it alive and direct its efforts towards winning the peace as well as winning the war."

In this connection, Thomas frankly said that the winning of the war and then the peace is the situation that makes the re-election of Roosevelt inevitable.

The American people, he said, are afraid to trust political enemies of Roosevelt with the making of the peace.

2 TERMS ENOUGH

"Under ordinary conditions," continued Thomas, "I have no hesitation in saying that in my opinion eight years is long enough for a man to be president. But these conditions are far from ordinary and, in view of what happened in 1919 and 1920, it would be much too great a risk to turn Roosevelt out of office at this time.

"Neither the country nor the world can at this time afford to run that risk. That's why I'm working so hard for Roosevelt and that's why I'm convinced he's going to be re-elected in a landslide."

Thomas said that he even put Vermont in the doubtful column.

Patton Push In 3 Miles Of Rich Saar

Monty's Paratroopers Wiped Out In New Drive On Arnhem, Berlin Says

PARIS, Monday, Nov. 6.—(UP) U. S. Third Army troops today had smashed three miles up the long-dormant upper Moselle valley in a surprise attack, capturing Berg, only three miles from the German Saar, while a see-saw battle raged through its second day for the crossroads of Schmidt, southeast of Aachen, where the enemy had lost nearly 40 tanks.

With the new thrust, pressure mounted against hard-pressed German defenders on virtually every sector of the winding 500-mile western front from Walcheren Island, where British troops entered the last enemy stronghold of Middelburs, to the wintry Vosges in southeast France.

The battered German army of southwest Holland was reported retreating to a new defense line along the Waal river six to 10 miles beyond the Maas, leaving the important island port of Dordecht virtually undefended. Pursuing Allied columns reached the Maas on a 15-mile front west of 'S Hertogenbosch, captured seven more Dutch towns and drove within a mile of the Maerdijk bridge across the Holland deep.

CLAIM 'CHUTISTS LOST

Berlin broadcasts reported that British parachutists had been landed on the historic Arnhem battlefield north of the Dutch Rhine to carry out sabotage but asserted they were wiped out or captured.

The U. S. First Army regained 500 precious yards which had been lost southeast of Aachen and with the help of P-47 and P-38 dive-bombers crushed two more strong counterattacks, knocking out about 30 tanks and other armored vehicles. German Panzer forces retained possession of the burning village of Schmidt, 15 miles below Aachen, which the Americans lost to a counterattack Saturday.

The enemy was also disclosed to be in possession of the town of Huertgen, four miles north of Schmidt, which American combat teams have been in and out of several times in the grim skirmishing across terrain that resembles the Great Smoky mountain country of eastern Tennesee.

HODGES BRISTLES, TOO

Berlin reports persisted that part of the First Army as well as the new American Ninth was massing with the Third for a great attack in the upper Moselle sector, where until yesterday there had been little officially reported activity for more than a month.

Jumping off from Cattenom, five miles northeast of Thionville, Gen. Patton's troops quickly negotiated the three miles to Berg and stood an equal distance from the junction of the Luxembourg, French and Saar frontiers near the German town of Perl.

The supply problem for all western front operations was being eased rapidly by the collapse of German resistance in the watery wilderness of western Holland where minesweepers and dredges were already at work in the Schedlde channel, beyond range of any remaining batteries on Walcheren.

British Commandos, who had gone ashore on the island in one of the bloodiest amphibious assaults of the war, drove into Middelburg, in the center of Walcheren, via the canal northward from Flushing. The German garrison was still resisting hopelessly and other enemy nests held out on patches of dry ground to the east and on the northern tip of the island.

An unexpected Allied acquisition was the large island of Tholen, northeast of the Beveland-Walcheren chain and separated from the Dutch mainland only by a 300-yard bayou. Canadian reconnaissance forces rolled across the causeway to the island from the Steenbergen area and found it empty of enemy troops.

MESA Orders Detroit, Toledo Strike Ended

Full U. S. Resources Behind Command To 14,500 Idlers

TOLEDO, Ohio, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Mechanics' Educational Society of America officials today ordered all idle members of the independent union to return to their jobs at war plants in Detroit and Toledo.

In a formal statement, George White, MESA national president, and Matthew Smith, national secretary, urged the 4,500 idle unionists in Toledo and the 7,000 to 10,000 striking workers in Detroit to return to work at starting time of their shifts tomorrow.

The statement was issued early today after an all-night meeting in which Smith and Earl Streeter, local MESA secretary, conferred with Maj. Daniel L. Bolin, Army labor advisor, here.

"Settlement of the Toledo strike has been arranged," the statement, addressed to all MESA members said, "and as the settlement is considered adequate by your national officers we therefore call on all members on strike in Toledo and Detroit to return to their jobs Monday at starting time of their regular shifts."

Smith called on fellow unionists to "restore full production as soon as possible."

There was no indication of the terms of the settlement, which began Oct. 24 in the Electric Auto-Lite Co. plant and led to Army seizure of eight Toledo concerns yesterday.

Col. Philip Faymonville, who directed the Army seizure, ordered all employes, regardless of their union affiliations, to report on regular shifts Monday.

"The full resources of the government will be directed against those (employes) who fail to return," Col. Faymonville stated.

Fifty-two plants in the Detroit and Toledo area were affected by the strike called in sympathy with 350 Auto-Lite workers who protested discharge of six fellow unionists.

'SCARECROW' PLANE NEW NAZI WEAPON

LONDON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The Germans fired "scarecrow" dummy airplanes that explode with a sheet of flame and dense black smoke, at Lancasters bombing Solingen yesterday, pilots said.

Hurled into bomber formations, "scarecrows" are intended to give the impression of an aircraft blowing up in the air. They are usually reserved for night formations.

Soviet Tanks In Budapest, Romania Says

LONDON, Monday, Nov. 6.—(UP)—Moscow announced last night that Russian troops, hurling back enemy counterattacks, had driven to within four and one-half miles of Budapest, while the Romanian radio said that Soviet tanks had crashed on through enemy defenses to break into the streets of the Hungarian capital.

Moscow did not confirm the report that Russian armored units had broken into the city streets on the east bank of the Danube river, but did disclose that the onrushing Soviets had captured several strategic localities in the area of the capital.

Among these was Taksony, on the Danube's east bank five and one-half miles south of the capital.

Between the Tisza and the Danube rivers the Russians also captured more than 3,000 German and Hungarian troops, bringing their total to more than 10,500 Moscow said.

The Bucharest radio—whose reports bore considerable authenticity since Romanian troops are fighting side by side with the Russians—said that German and Hungarian troops were being concentrated in Buda, on the western bank of the Danube.

This report possibly indicated that the Germans and Hungarians were evacuating the eastern half of Pest and emphasizing the critical military situation, the Budapest radio broadcast a frantic order for the mobilization of all transport.

The broadcast ordered all motor vehicles inside the capital regardless of type or ownership to be assembled at designated points in running order within an hour after the broadcast.

At the same time, the Free Hungarian radio, broadcasting "strike now" instructions of Hungarian Partisans, urged them to barricade escape roads from the city which the Germans might use in abandonment of the city, guarding the approaches to Adolf Hitler's Reich.

MAYBE VOTERS WILL

Moscow Hears GOP To 'Assassinate' Dewey

MOSCOW, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Izvestia, Soviet government newspaper, in an article headlined, "The Election of President Roosevelt Is Guaranteed" said today there was a rumor that Republican interests were plotting a fake assassination attempt against Gov. Dewey to sway American voters.

"One should not forget that history includes a number of such insolent, crude provocations, beginning with a faked document ascribed to Communists, which appear on the eve of parliamentary elections in some democratic countries up to the burning of the Reichstag in Germany," said Izvestia.

In an unsigned article of two columns long at the top of its third page, the paper declared "never before in the history of the United States have observers on the eve of a presidential election been so sure of the results as they are now because so clear is the composition of forces supporting each of the two candidates . . . The chances of the second candidate, Dewey, have been melting before one's eyes."

Izvestia said Republican hopes were dashed when preliminary data indicated the number of voters this year would at least equal the 50,000,000 in 1940.

"At the beginning of the campaign the Republicans believed 30,000,000 would be cast," the paper reported.

"Because of the unfavorable course of the election campaign the split increased in the Republican party," it added, citing the pro-Roosevelt stand of Sen. Ball, Republican, Minnesota.

"Dewey attempted to divide himself from defeatist, isolationist conceptions and the most compromised pro-Fascist elements such as Hamilton Fish and Gerald K. Smith," the paper said, "but still the pro-Fascist, pro-German ties of those who formed the core of the Republican staff who financed Dewey's election campaign are well known."

"The Hearst newspapers and the publications of McCormick, Patterson and Gannett carried on a campaign for Dewey and simultaneously this campaign was converted into a defeatist, even a pro-Hitlerite agitation," Izvestia asserted. "The support of these newspapers betrayed Dewey. Obviously his shattered position induced Dewey to resort to the old method of uttermost reaction—'scare people with the Communist danger.'"

"This hopeless attempt by the Republican party is made to cover with scarecrow rags their own political nakedness and lack of a positive program to attract voters," the paper continued. "The investment of millions of dollars by Republican headquarters will not bring any political or economic interest.

"In circles of the Republican bosses a feeling of alarm reigns. They understand failure is imminent. Under these circumstances it is no wonder, according to rumors circulating among foreign correspondents, that the Republicans in despair might resort to a big adventure.

"According to these rumors a fake 'pot' against Dewey is being prepared by the Republican party with responsibility for the plot to

Fortune's Poll Reveals 53.6 Pct. Edge for FDR

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 5.—As political sentiment stood in the closing days of the presidential campaign, President Roosevelt still held 53.6 per cent of civilian preference in the nation while Gov. Dewey had 46.4 per cent, the final Fortune survey of public opinion reveals today.

The figure of 53.6 for President Roosevelt and 46.4 for Gov. Dewey was arrived at after distributing "don't know" votes in the same proportion as those who held definite opinions.

In the closing days of the campaign the "don't know" vote hovered between 5 and 7 1-2 per cent.

Fortune Magazine conducted three parallel surveys during the last 10 days before election, all on national cross-sections, but found no significant differences appearing between any of them. Fortune editors emphasized that survey results this year reflected civilian voting only. Polling armed services being forbidden by federal law.

FDR Finishing in His Home Valley; Dewey Voice Falters on Ballot Eve

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 5.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, home to cast his fourth-term ballot, laid campaigning aside today to spend a quiet Sunday at his Hyde Park estate.

The President came to the Hudson valley overnight from Boston where he delivered his climactic campaign speech to a shouting, cheering throng in Fenway park last night.

In that speech—his last major address—he poked fun at the Republican campaign phrase, "it's time for a change," and referred to his opposition as a political party working "both sides of the street" in its effort to capture the presidency.

Although there was no public campaigning in store for today, the chief executive will make his traditional trip through the Hudson valley tomorrow in an election-eve round of speaking.

Many of the political advisors and party officials who accompanied him to Boston left the train upon its arrival here and, for the most part, only White House aides remained with the chief executive over the weekend.

As he has done in all campaigns, the President tomorrow will visit such nearby neighborhood communities as Beacon, Kingston and Newburgh, the latter in the congressional district of Rep. Fish(Republican, New York, who has been a frequent target of presidential jibes in past campaigns.

Mr. Roosevelt is expected to make brief talks in the three communities before he reaches Poughkeepsie, where he is scheduled for a speech from the post office. His last campaign appearance

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Gov. Dewey composed the final broadcast of his presidential campaign tonight after disclosing his voice almost failed him during the final phase of his drive for votes.

He referred to one of the most strenuous days of his campaign—last Thursday—which began with a half hour talk in Baltimore, Md., and continued with platform speeches in New York, Sunbury and Harrisburg, Pa., half-hour armory addresses in Wilkes-Barre and Scranton, Pa.

Reporters accompanying the Republican nominee thought they detected a crack or two in his voice at Wilkes-Barre, but they were assured by Dewey's staff at the time that it resulted from a defective amplifying system.

Then, after an 18-mile drive to Scranton through damp night air, he seemed in his usual voice. Last night's disclosure that he nearly suffered the same strain that reduced the late Wendell Willkie's voice to a hoarse whisper toward the end of the 1940 campaign was made during a brief "thank you" speech to the Madison Square Garden crowd.

Tomorrow night's closing appeal will be a 15-minute talk over all four major networks, starting at 10 o'clock (Atlanta time), from the executive mansion. Although no formal subject was announced, it was indicated the gover-

Propagandist Arrested In Italy

ROME, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Mario Appelius, Fascist radio commentator, was arrested last night by the political section of the Rome police in a hospital where he was said to be in a serious condition suffering from a brain tumor.

Before the war Appelius was a foreign correspondent for Mussolini's newspaper, Il Popolo d'Italia, and became a commentator for radio Rome when Italy entered the conflict. He was one of the most violent of the Fascist propagandists.

Clear Skies Expected In Wake of 40-Low

Clear and slightly colder weather today, with the temperature around 40 degrees in the early morning is predicted for the Atlanta area by the official forecaster at the municipal airport.

Yesterday the high reading was 65 degrees at 3:30 p. m.; the low 47 at 7 a. m.

FEAR OF NAZI SECRET WEAPON FANNED AS U. S. PLANES FEEL JOLT OVER REICH

U. S. NINTH AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS, France, Nov. 5.—(AP)—American Marauders and Havocs bombed a big ordnance depot at Homburg today and crews experienced a unique sensation, caused probably by unusual atmospheric conditions but possibly, according to the fliers, by some new German secret weapon.

The pilots said their planes bounced up and down from the time they left the target until they crossed the German border back over France. None of them was able to explain the terrific jolts.

No explanation of the phenomenon was forthcoming from headquarters.

The attackers bombed warehouses, ammunition dumps and stockpiles at Homburg, 15 miles northeast of Saarbrucken, without encountering Nazi fighters or flak. All returned safely.

DeKalb Voters Are Urged To Support Bond Issue

On the eve of the election in DeKalb county when a $1,600,000 postwar improvement program bond issue will be submitted for ratification, Fred L. Cannon, chairman of the general bond committee, issued a final statement calling on all registered voters to go to the polls and vote.

"This is the final appeal to the registered voters of DeKalb county to go to the polls Tuesday and cast their ballots," Cannon said.

"One of the outstanding reasons for submitting this question to the people for ratification at this time is that this vitally needed county improvement plan is designed to provide employment for our returning servicemen during the postwar readjustment period.

"Just one month from Tuesday, that is December 7, three years will have elapsed in which our servicemen have been fighting on all the battle fronts of the world.

"All of us have followed these men and our servicewomen through the hardships they have undergone and through the sacrifices they have made. We do not believe there is one man or woman in DeKalb county who would deliberately do anything to injure these men and women.

VOTING URGED

"Yet, in the election Tuesday, every person who fails to cast his vote, one way or another in the election, will be guilty of deserting these men and women at a time when a real service could be done for them on the home front. It is all right for us to cheer the deeds of our fighting men and women but the real test comes when we are asked to do a simple little thing like voting. We are now asking our people to vote and if they fail we are warning them that the time will come soon after the war when they will regret that they would not sacrifice a few minutes' time to go out and vote for something that means so much to our returning forces.

"The total of the bond issue is $1,600,000 and it consists of seven items as follows:

"For paving 200 miles of county roads and linking them up with the present system of paved state roads in DeKalb county, $1,000,000.

"To building a combination jail-office building to provide a new jail on the third floor and offices fo. county departments on the other two floors, $250,000.

COURT HOUSE

"For remodeling the DeKalb county court house to make it one of the most beautiful buildings of its kind in the nation, $100,000.

"To develop a county-wide park system for improving parks throughout the county as well as the parks in DeKalb county that lie in the city limits of Atlanta, $100,000.

"For the erection of a new library building, $50,000.

"To build a new alms house and for a new potato curing plant and an abattoir on the county farm, $50,000.

"For the enlargement of quarters for the county clinic and extension of its service, $50,000.

"The voters must vote separately on each item.

"The polls will open at 7 a. m. and close at 6 p. m.

"We respectfully ask, as your general bond committee, that you make your arrangements now so that you will be certain to vote in the election."

Heavy Vote Seen In Fulton County

A heavy vote is expected in Fulton county in tomorrow's general election, Mrs. Janie L. Garmon, county registrar, reported. Approximately 62,000 voters are registered, and at least 75 per cent of those registered are expected to cast a ballot.

In the Democratic primary, a total of 31,739 ballots were cast, Mrs. Garmon added, but the voting was considered light in that election.

The registrar pointed out that her office has been flooded with questions and requests on the election during the past two weeks, indicating that most of the registered voters will go to the polls.

Constitution, WAGA To Give Ballot Coverage

The hubbub of a newspaper office on election night will take to the air waves tomorrow night as The Constitution and radio station WAGA combine efforts to give Georgia a "scoop" coverage of the Roosevelt-Dewey balloting.

The scene will not be as calm and organized as the accompanying photograph, though officials probably agree such a situation would be "desirable."

The Constitution and WAGA have extensive plans for releasing last-minute news flashes, straight from the wires of the Associated Press, United Press, International News Service, and local and state Constitution reporters to WAGA listeners and Constitution readers.

This broadcast is slated to extend "far into the night"—or until such time as results appear sufficiently complete to determine who will occupy the White House for the next four years.

Constitution editorial officials and WAGA executives met yesterday to map plans for the intensive coverage designed to keep listeners at home informed of the latest flashes from the state and nation.

In addition to local news and opinions, the broadcast will include such Blue Network commentators at Raymond Gram Swing and Martin Agronsky; such Georgia leaders as Sens. George and Russell, plus, possibly, Drew Pearson and Walter Winchell; and local officials of Atlanta and Georgia. Dr George Gallup, election poll-taker and regular feature of The Constitution, will be brought in by the Blue Network.

Formulating last-minute details for the "coverage" were John Bartlett and Herbert Harris, of WAGA, and Ralph McGill, Jack Tarver and Lee Fuhrman, of The Constitution.

'Southern Cross' Will Fly Again

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The famous tri-motored plane, Southern Cross, used by the late Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith on his pioneering trans-Pacific flight, 15 years ago, is to fly again.

The plane has been removed from Canberra National Museum and the engines are being overhauled so that the Southern Cross can be used in a movie detailing the life of Sir Charles. New parts for the engines will be manufactured here, since they are not obtainable in the open market.

BURNING BRIDGES BEHIND THEM

By CLYDE A. FARNSWORTH.

KWEILIN, China, Oct. 28.—(Delayed)—(AP)—The principal advanced base for U. S. air power in the Orient blew up tonight in a series of mighty explosions, touched off by Americans pulling out of Kweilin ahead of the oncoming Japanese.

Brig. Gen. Clinton D. Vincent, commander of the 14th Air Force's eastern composite wing, gave the order to set the fuses after a fighter pilot reported 2,000 Japanese cavalrymen were bearing down on this city in northeastern Kwangsi province and were but 15 miles to the east.

Except for the last-minute delivery of arms to the Chinese at Kweilin, and occasional staging of emergency landings for fighters and bombers, Yangtang airfield near Kweilin had been unused sice mid-September. Buried in the field were 218 tons of bombs, ready for the demolition work.

These preparations had been made since the night of September 16, when secondary installations of the base—runways, taxiways, dumps and building at Ehrtang and Lichiachen and the adjacent fighter strip at Yangtang—were destroyed.

DEMOLITION SIGNAL

The code word "Marblehead"—the signal to demolish the field—was received in the communications cave overlooking the Yangtang strip.

Vincent had chosen it in casual conversation with Col. Waldo Irving Kenerson, district engineer. Vincent decided the name of Kenerson's home town, Marblehead, Mass., should be the touchoff signal.

Once the radio station was dismantled, the base was out of touch with the outside world and the most pressing concern of the "bitter-enders," as they called themselves, was to destroy the place without destroying themselves. Since there was no chance of aerial rescue with the field blown, they had to hit the road in jeeps.

Our jeep was en route to Kweilin, where we were to take the road south, our six jeeps forming a little convoy. Each jeep had three men armed with rifles, carbines, Bren guns, tommyguns and pistols. No one knew whether the road south was still free of the enemy.

EVERY 10 MINUTES

We went along a curving road past big shallow trenches, where the bombs were laid out, stopping every few hundred yards to let men out to set the fuses.

Finally, alone in the jeep, I reached the appointed intersection where another jeep driven by Sgt. Robert W. Kelsey, of Colorado Springs, Colo., was waiting in the darkness.

I waited for his shout that his fuse was attached. I stood in the headlight of the jeep, eyeing my wrist watch for three minutes to make sure everyone else had time to tape their fuses.

At 5:35 p. m. I fired a red parachute flare, a signal for everybody to pull the igniters. Then I drove slowly back over the same route, making sure to pick up everyone I let off.

Destruction of the Kweilin base permits the disclosure that at the Yangtang main field the radio station and fighter control room was in a house built inside a cave. This also was demolished.

Dr. Alexis Carrel, Mechanical Heart Inventor, Dies

PARIS, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Dr. Alexis Carrel, 71, surgeon and biologist who won international fame for his medical findings, and invention of a mechanical heart in research with Charles A. Lindbergh, died early today.

His Paris office said Dr. Carrel, Nobel prize-winner and author of the widely-published "Man the Unknown," had been ill with a heart ailment for some months.

Two months ago Mrs. Carrel denied published reports, attributed to French government agencies, that Carrel had been suspended from his post as director of the Carrel Foundation for the Study of Human Problems, and said he was at home, seriously ill. J. M. Bougher, director of the cabinet for the prefect of police, had declared the Carrel foundation was established with Vichy government funds in 1941.

In 1935, Dr. Carrel and Lindbergh announced development of a mechanical heart, in which the heart, kidney or glands from an animal could be kept alive for study in glass chambers, supplied by circulation of artificial blood.

Schools to Make Survey of Needs Education Week

Atlantans this week will join the nation in observance of American Education Week, and educators and business leaders will launch a joint survey of existing facilities and curricula in an effort to meet postwar demands.

Miss Ira Jarrell and Jere A. Wells, city and Fulton county school superintendents, respectively, will confer with the Atlanta chapter of the National Office Management Association in a round table discussion of mutual problems at a dinner at 6:30 p. m. Thursday at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Representatives of seven southeastern states will discuss school problems at a meeting of the Education Policies Commission Thursday and Friday at the Biltmore hotel, and education and its importance will be stressed in programs in local schools during the week.

The round-table featuring local education heads and businessmen marks the first real co-operative step of business and educators to meet their mutual problems, Miss Jarrell said yesterday. She predicted that both interests will get many "valuable suggestions" from the conference.

E. T. Downham, president of the local office management group, is being assisted in the program by J. C. Shelburne, a director, and C. S. Conklin, chairman of the educational committee.

M. E. Colemap, assistant school superintendent in charge of elementary schools, announced that the Harris school this week will get the highest award made by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce for effectiveness in the salvage drive—a second star to be awarded Wednesday by Muggsy Smith, of the chamber.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

How To Mark Vote In Tuesday's Election

The ballot for Tuesday's election is about a yard long. Each state has its own particular form and way of setting up the ballot. Georgia's may be somewhat confusing. The League of Women Voters does not tell anyone for whom to vote but presents this information so that you will know how to mark your ballot.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET

The ballot is printed in two columns. The left-hand column, which is the straight Democratic ticket, includes the electors pledged to vote for the Roosevelt-Truman ticket and all of the congressional, state and local officials who were winners in the July 4 primary. If you want to vote the straight Democratic ticket, mark an X in the place indicated at the top of the left-hand column. By so doing, you will have voted for Roosevelt and Truman and all the nominees of the July 4 primary.

REPUBLICAN TICKET

If you want to vote the Republican ballot for President and Vice President, mark an X in the space indicated at the top of the right-hand column. By so doing you will have voted for Dewey and Bricker. There are no Republican candidates for congressional, state and local offices.

A third presidential ballot appears just below the official Republican ballot. It is called the Independent Democratic ballot. While the names of no presidential nominee appears at the head of this list, it is obvious that this is a vote for the Dewey-Bricker ticket, since the same list of names appears on the Republican ballot. If you mark an X in this space, it will probably be counted as a vote for the Dewey-Bricker ticket, but the surest way of voting for the Dewey-Bricker ticket is to place an X in the space marked Official Republican Ballot.

SPLIT TICKET

Anyone who has voted the straight Democratic ticket has already voted for Ramspeck as representative. If they wish to vote for Alexander, who is running for congress as an independent, they will have to scratch out Ramspeck's name and put an X in the space above Alexander's name.

Anyone who wants to vote the Republican ballot for President, but wishes to vote the Democratic ballot for the other officials will have to make an X in the space on both the Republican and Democratic ballot and then scratch out the names of the Democratic electors for President. This will show that the voter wants the Democratic nominees except for President and vice president.

DEKALB VOTERS

DeKalb county voters will be given a separate ballot to mark for the bond election. There will be seven bond items and there will be space to vote for or against each one.

VOTE TOMORROW

America is the only country with enough faith in its own people and in the democratic processes to hold an election in wartime. No patriotic citizen can fail to vote. VOTE AS YOU PLEASE, BUT VOTE.

Spanish Hopes For Peace Table Seat Hard Hit

LONDON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Lord Robert G. Vansittart, who advocates a hard peace for Germany, said today in an interview there would be no peace conference seats for neutral nations—not even those whose neutrality was beyond question.

Lord Vansittart, questioned about reports in the London press that Generalissimo Franco felt Spain should have a seat at the peace table, said any suggestion that Spain be admitted to the peace talks "is altogether fantastic" and reminded that Spain was a signatory of the anti-Comintern pact.

His reply to the direct question about Spain thus included Sweden, Eire, Portugal, Switzerland and Turkey.

The member of parliament did not mention the other neutrals by name but said the British parliament had decided they should have no part in the framing of the peace.

Franco's Organ Fears Arbitrary Allied Move

MADRID, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The Spanish national weekly El Espanol, which often reflects official Spanish government opinions, today demanded a seat at the peace conference for Spain, and in preliminary postwar discussions.

The newspaper said the peace would not last if "the conquering peoples merely impose their will on the rest of the world," for the collaboration of all the nations, particularly the neutrals like Spain, is necessary.

El Espanol again held out a hand to the United States, saying "the international principles of the United States as officially stated are absolutely unopposed by Spanish ideology."

Atlantan Honored For Watercolors

An Atlanta girl, senior in the fine arts department of the University of Georgia, won first and second places with two watercolors in the Georgia Artists' Association contest in Savannah.

Miss Alexander.

Dorothy Anne Alexander, of 604 Argonne avenue, N. E., entered a professional showing for the first time and was richer by a $50 war bond and the honor of having her work hung in the Savannah Telfair Academy.

The winning water colors, "The Fence" and "Railroad Tracks," were painted in the vicinity of Athens. Five students in the university entered work in the annual state-wide contest.

Lorainne Beauchamp Harris, also a student, won honorable mention with an oil painting, "Still Life With Shell and Squash."

WPB Official Urges Waste Paper Salvage

Waste paper, the No. 1 critical material of the entire war program, is still urgently needed to make containers for war goods, as well as prepared in cans, which are used to make morphine hypodermic syringes and to keep canned foods fresh.

Wesley R. Mills, state salvage manager of the WPB, announced that each citizen can do his part in the all-out fight to bring victory closer by continuing to save every scrap of waste paper, except waxed paper and cellophane, along with tin cans, kitchen fats and rags. They should be turned in to salvage committees in each community.

600 Alumni To Attend Dinner

Approximately 600 Boys' High school alumni are expected to attend the annual dinner to be staged Thursday night at the Ansley hotel, Robert E. Shivers has announced.

The dinner will precede by 24 hours the annual Boys' High-Tech High football game, and the Purple football team and band will be honor guests.

At last year's dinner, more than 300 members of the alumni attended, and judging from advance reservations, Shivers said, the attendance this year will be doubled.

Dr. James W. Middleton, pastor of the First Baptist church, will be the speaker, while Ernest Rogers will be toastmaster.

Crash of Big Airliner Remains Unexplained

HANFORD, Cal., Nov. 5.—(AP)—The crash of the Transcontinental and Western Air passenger plane, Sky Chief, in which 24 persons were killed last night, remained unexplained today.

The big silver ship appeared to go to pieces in midair during an electrical storm, scattering bodies and wreckage over a wide area.

"It looked like a battlefield," a reporter who visited the scene said.

Stilwell Praised By British Paper

CALCUTTA, India, Nov. 5.—(AP) The British Army newspaper Seac today paid high tribute to Gen. Stilwell, who was recalled to Washington from the China-Burma-India theater, and said Adm. Lord Louis Mountbatten, head of the Southeast Asia Command, was the "sorriest man" in the territory to see Stilwell leave.

"All admired Stilwell and many loved that caustic, craggy, tough old bird," the newspaper said.

"Stilwell scorned all who scoffed at talk of a road back to Burma over the mountains beyond Ledo, and history will decide the value of that road, for without it the Japanese still would hold Mogaung and Myitkyina."

Child Hospital Plans Still Pend

Plans for postwar construction of a $500,000 children's hospital in connection with the Grady facilities have not been completed, as announced, The Constitution learned last night.

Plans are in the making for this project, and that work is proceeding to complete them as soon as possible, but that thus far no confirmation of the expansion has come from official quarters, according to Frank Wilson, hospital superintendent.

"Herd up" that used stove, heater, fur coat, radio, gun, etc., and "corral" cash by advertising them in the Want Ads of The Constitution.

2,500 Bombers Pound 5 Cities in West Reich

LONDON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—More than 2,500 U. S. and British heavy bombers braved bad weather and heavy flak barrages today and pounded five German industrial cities, maintaining an aerial assault on the west Reich enemy lines in Italy and Vienna.

British-based American warplanes lost 30 bombers and 23 fighters from the air fleets that roared over Germany, an Eighth Air Force communique announced.

These were brought down by the antiaircraft barrage, for the war bulletin said that not a single enemy plane chose to attack in the bad weather. A number of the missing planes, including at least six fighters, were believed to have landed on friendly soil, the Eighth Air Force command reported.

Frankfurt, Ludwigshaven and Karlsruhe, with their railway yards and supply depots feeding the southern sector of the Siegfried line facing the U. S. Third Army, were plastered by 3,500 tons of bombs loosed by 1,200 Liberators and Flying Fortresses.

RAF Lancasters hammered the industrial city of Solingen, south of the Ruhr, for the second day in a row, while 900 U. S. heavyweights from Italy struck military targets of Vienna.

Another force of RAF planes blew to bits a torpedo factory at Utrecht, coming over after the Dutch workers had gone off duty.

At Ludwigshafen, several Messerschmitt jet-propelled interceptors darted up from their bases, took one look at the 650 Mustangs and Thunderbolts covering the attack, and scooted for the clouds.

The fighter cover for the Vienna raiders had so much idle time on its hands that pilots dropped down below the clouds and shot up motor convoys along the roads leading into the Brenner pass.

Spitfires running interference for the Solingen raiders again met no fighter opposition, as was the case in yesterday's attacks on the city.

These attacks came as German industrial cities still blazed from explosives dumped by some 5,000 planes yesterday and last night.

Bochum, coal and iron center in the Ruhr, was hard hit by 1,000 planes whose bombes last night left raging fires visible for more than 50 miles. Pilots reported there were three great explosions and then the city became a mass of flames.

Hannover and other objectives in western Germany were also attacked, an air ministry communique reported. The British lost 34 bombers in the night's operations.

A Stockholm dispatch said Allied planes were believed to have swept over the Kattegat and attacked German shipping off the Swedish port of Varberg yesterday.

The newspaper Aftonbladet said reports from the west coast told of heavy explosions which shook houses in Varberg and tracer bullets arching across the sky.

A recapitulation showed 64 planes were missing from yesterday's massive assaults, including 30 American warplanes.

In addition to the 34 British planes downed, there were these other losses: 15 from the 1,200 Italian-based planes raiding Bavaria and Austria, 14 from the 1,900 British-based planes striking seven western German targets and one from fighter-bombers operating from French bases.

The weight of all these attacks suggested that November might be a record month in the history of aerial warfare.

In five days, 8,700 heavy bombers have sent more than 25,000 tons of explosives crashing on 25 major cities in the Reich. Another 15,000 mediums, fighter-bombers and fighter escort played havoc with everything the enemy tried to move by land, sea or air.

Pilots back from today's Rhineland raids said they met a terrific antiaircraft barrage over Ludwigshaven, on the west bank of the Rhine. One pilot described it as being "just plain hell for the five minutes we were over the target."

Karlsruhe, to the south, was blanketed by clouds but the I. G. Farbenindustrie chemical and synthetic oil plant at Ludwigshaven stretched for three clear miles beneath the sights of American bombardiers and made a good target.

The inland port of Frankfurt, largest distributor of oil in western Germany, also was visible through breaks in the clouds and bombardiers watched as river installations and railway yards capable of handling 2,500 freight cars daily went up in giant puffs of smoke and flame.

It was the 58th raid for Frankfurt's 500,000 population, the 46th for Ludwigshaven's 150,000 and the 18th for Karlsruhe's 185,000. Solingen is a new target.

When the German air force showed a reluctance to engage in the sort of mauling air duels that cost it 208 planes three days ago, Mustangs and Thunderbolts dived to the deck, strafing ground targets.

80 Per Cent of Cologne Erased, Says German

WITH THE U. S. FORCES IN HOLLAND, Nov. 5.—(UP)—Eighty per cent of the vital Rhineland communications center of Cologne was destroyed by Allied bombers up to October 23, and the remaining population is sunk in misery, a young German who visited the city from October 17 to 23 reported today.

Since then, British and American planes have dropped 11,500 tons of bombs on Cologne in their campaign to destroy the city completely.

The informant, a 24-year-old German, said that between 300,000 and 400,000 civilians—most of them Italian, Russian and French slave labor—remain in the city, dwelling in cellars and wooden shacks outside Cologne. The city's prewar population was 750,000.

WARTIME HOSTELERS—The war has taken many youth hostelers off their bicycles and given them different assignments, yet the total number of bike tourists in Atlanta remains about the same as prewar, members summarize. This group included cyclists from Girls' High, about 30 of whom peddled to Mrs. Ruth F. Wood's home, 632 East Lake drive, Decatur, for a weekend trip. The girls rode about eight miles in this short bike-hike designed to orient new members.

War Fails To Pedal Down Atlanta Bicycle Tourists

Atlanta bike tourists have not decreased in number since the war although their peacetime membership was largely boys, youth hostel member said here yesterday.

They notice a slight increase in the cost of trips, but hostels continue to furnish rooms for 25 cents a night plus a minimum utility charge (10 cents in summer, 15 cents in winter). Bike riders report a demand for a "few more nickels" now than before the war because of the increased cost of food, bedding and other equipment.

Local cyclists have postwar ideas about peddling through England and some of the European countries. Travel limitations are felt by the group. Yet, as a whole, their program continues in peacetime proportions.

Bikes previously were ridden by virtually an even number of boys and girls. Now the boys are riding different vehicles and, until they come back, the girls are carrying on.

They report no noticeable effects of bicycle rationing or the present-day difficulty in getting blankets and outdoor equipment, but the Georgia Youth Hostelries seem to be operating on almost peacetime levels.

As for the male members—boys in uniforms receive "courtesy cards" which permit them to take trips with the bike-hikers, and participate in the Youth Hostel movement as a whole.

Twenty Girls' High students were initiated into the Hostel ranks Saturday night when a group of more than 30 girls pedaled about eight miles from the Ponce de Leon and Highland intersection to the residence of Mrs. Ruth F. Wood, 632 East Lake drive, Decatur. Mrs. Wood does not operate a hostel. She is a member of the duo-wheelers and offered her home for a guest house. The "seniors" wanted to give the "freshmen" something of an orientation ride before they take the conducted tours to Duluth and other more distant hostels.

Leading the group were Grace Ferrell, bike-hike head of the Girls' High Athletic Association, and Mary Ella Smith, president of Girls' High Athletic Association.

Summarizing the reasons why they like hosteling, the girls said it teaches them "how to cook," gives them a desire "to do something for others," and is much more than "just pedaling a bicycle."

Honshu, where Tokyo and most of Japan's heavy industry are located, was covered by the scouting planes, radio Tokyo said.

Meanwhile heavy bombers of the Allied eastern air command, with fighter escort, blasted railway targets on the outskirts of Rangoon, Burma. Others attacked shipyards and an airfield in the Tonkin gulf sector of French Indo-China.

Tokyo, in a radio broadcast recorded by FCC, said an unspecified number of "enemy planes" carried out a second reconnaissance mission over the Tokaido district, Honshu Island's east coast industrial area. Tokyo is in the district. The broadcast said the planes flew from bases in the Marianas Islands, supposedly from dromes on Guam, Saipan or Tinian. It added no bombs were dropped but "it seems the enemy completed his objective of scouting. The future movements of the enemy necessitate careful watch prior to the presidential election."

The Domei agency said about 300 planes, believed to be from American carriers, hit the Manila area, Clark airdrome and the Legaspi sector, all on Luzon Island, Philippines.

Macon Captain Leads Rout of 100 Japs

WITH THE 24TH DIVISION, Leyte, Nov. 4.—(Delayed)—(AP)—In bitter hand-to-hand fighting, a small force of this American command dispersed about 100 Japanese soldiers, killing a number of them, in a battle for a tiny hill in a valley flanking the key Carigara-Pinamopoan road late yesterday.

Part of the group, under the command of Capt. Jack V. Mathews, of Macon, Ga., was setting up a command post on the hill when 10 Japanese attacked, six being killed.

Later, a platoon discovered a force of Japs in a tiny gulley, killing 17.

OPA Ceiling Stops Valdosta Pecan Auction

VALDOSTA, Ga., Nov. 5.—Due to the ceiling price on pecans, R. H. Ferguson, operator of the Valdosta pecan auction, announces that no auctions will be held this season.

Manager Ferguson said that with the OPA ceiling set at the present level there is no advantage in auctions, growers receiving the price from both processors and brokers.

Quads Doing Nicely

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The Cirminello quadruplets, born Wednesday at Lying-In hospital, are "doing nicely," the hospital reported today. The only boy, Michael, who had been having respiratory difficulty, was "much improved in every respect," the report stated. Both he and one of the girls are continuing to receive liquids subcutaneously to counteract dehydration.

940,000 POUNDS OF TURKEY EN ROUTE FOR NAVY'S THANKSGIVING, LAND, SEA

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, PEARL HARBOR, Nov. 5.—(AP)—A Thanksgiving turkey dinner for every U. S. naval officer and man in the Pacific area, afloat and ashore, is the ambition of the Navy Service Force.

Some 940,000 pounds of turkey, with all the trimmings, is moving out to fighting and supply ships and to the men at shore establishments in the Mariana, Caroline, Marshall, Gilbert and Hawaiian islands.

Other arrangements have been made independently to see that men with the Southwest Pacific naval force under Gen. MacArthur, and those in the Alaskan theater, get their full share of the holiday goodies.

Navy supply officers handling Thanksgiving dinner arrangements, have co-ordinated their plans with those of the Army quartermasters. The latter plan to ship 240,000 pounds of turkey and all the trimmings to various Central Pacific bases.

This, he continued, was true because there are a good many CIO organizations in the state.

"I think Roosevelt is going to carry New York, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois and Missouri—most of which the poll takers put in the doubtful column," said Thomas. "In my opinion, there's nothing doubtful about them. They surely are in the Roosevelt column. My guess is that the poll takers are in the same fix that the Literary Digest poll found itself after the 1936 election."

NEW JERSEY DOUBTFUL

The only important eastern state which Thomas placed in the doubtful column was New Jersey. There, he said, a real fight was in progress and only a count of the votes would determine the result.

In reference to the postwar future of industry and labor, Thomas said that he favored building up the industries of the south.

"I'm particularly interested in keeping plants like Bell, at Marietta, running after this war. I think much can be done to keep many of them in operation in the production of peacetime goods.

"I have long favored a decentralization of industry and the postwar period will furnish us an opportunity to put that idea into effect all over the country. In the south it's important to do this. For under present conditions there are not enough industrial jobs to absorb all workers."

FOR LESS U. S. CONTROL

Thomas said that after the war he favored the gradual loosening of all government controls.

"In our union, for example," he explained, "we ought to have the right to sit around a table for collective bargaining. We are anxious, for one thing, to extend the principle of arbitration. We have such an agreement with Ford and it has worked well. But we have no such agreement with Chrysler and any trouble we've had there springs out of that fact."

Despite all this, Thomas said that in his union the number of man-hours lost during the war has been less than one-tenth of one per cent of the total.

Thomas commented upon the trend of women employes away from wartime industry.

"They don't like the setup of big industry," he said, "and I think the trend will continue and become more pronounced as we approach the end of the war. However, it's my opinion, that if women want to work in industry they should have the same privilege as men in that respect."

HOUSING AND JOBS

Asked about the outlook for postwar employment, Thomas said that in common with other union leaders, he was giving that question much study.

"I believe that a concerted effort to better the housing situation all over the United States offers the most constructive approach to that problem," he said.

"At present I am chairman of the housing committee of the CIO and at the next CIO meeting I'm going to try to put over a plan for getting busy on that problem. Better housing is something that we need all over the country. If we translate that need into jobs, then we've made a big inroad on the menace of unemployment. In that way, we can work up to the 60,000,000 jobs that the President spoke about in a recent radio address."

Thomas is stopping at the Piedmont hotel.

Richard Palmer Dies in Mississippi

Richard Palmer, 42, of 948 Highland terrace, N. E., who was serving with the Merchant Marines, died Saturday in a private hospital in Pass Christian, Miss.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 p. m. today at Spring Hill, with Dr. Louie D. Newton officiating. Burial will be in Hollywood cemetery.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Victor J. Palmer; two sisters, Mrs. Steve Anderson, of Timmonsville, S. C., and Mrs. Harold Little, of Atlanta, and a brother, Cpl. Paul Palmer, of the Army, overseas.

Road Division Starts Survey of Traffic

Preliminaries to the transportation survey of metropolitan Atlanta by the State Highway Department have been launched at the city hall.

Half a dozen clerks and research employes of the state department have been assigned to glean data concerning the previous traveling habits of Atlantans and other citizens of the section from old records at the city hall. They also are to prepare blanks and other data needed in an origin and destination survey, which the state department will make as a prelude to a detailed study of postwar needs for the community.

It is expected that completion of the details will consume about 10 months. In the meantime, Atlanta and Fulton county have withheld any after the war program affecting traffic. This includes details for proposed viaducts, street widenings and extensions or any other matters dealing with traffic.

The Emory Wheel, "all-American" student weekly at Emory University, has established two new "firsts" by electing a sophomore as editor in chief and a woman student as associate editor.

Ed Sherman, of Brunswick, Ga., a second-year student, is the new editor in chief. He has served on the Wheel staff three semesters and was an associate editor last term.

The first woman in history to hold the position of associate editor is Miss Betty Howell, of 38 Peachtree circle, N. E. She is a junior in journalism at Emory under the university's co-operative program with Agnes Scott College.

Other Atlantans on the new staff are the business manager, Lauren G. Norvell, 429 Highland avenue, N. E., and the sports editor, 1037 Greenwich avenue, S. W.

Three Momentous Parleys In Preparatory Stages

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(UP)—Three momentous conferences destined to leave their imprint on the future world security organization were reported in the preparatory stage tonight.

Unofficial advices indicate that each meeting will complement the other. The final result is expected to be the official framing of plans for the new world order, which will then be submitted to the respective governments for ratification according to their constitutional processes.

The gatherings, in order of their approximate dates, are understood in diplomatic circles to be about as follows:

1. Meeting of President Roosevelt, Premier Josef Stalin and Prime Minister Winston Churchill in December, probably in Europe, to complete the work unfinished when Mr. Roosevelt and Churchill conferred at Quebec in September.

2. A consultative meeting of the foreign ministers of the American republics, probably in January, to consider the Dumbarton Oaks plan, the knotty Argentine question, and measures to prevent an economic collapse in Latin America with the cessation of war purchases by the United States.

3. World conference of the United Nations to put the Dumbarton Oaks plan in final form, ready for signature and submission to the United States senate and kindred bodies all over the world for ratification. This conference is expected to be held at some place in the United States where there are sufficient hotel facilities for at least 10,000 delegates and experts.

President Roosevelt is expected to be accompanied by a staff of high military and naval officers and other advisers to the meeting of the three chiefs of state. It is understood that one of the important matters to be discussed is what will the world security council do in case one of its own permanent members commits an act of aggression.

Acting Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius Jr. has indicated that this question, which the delegates at Dumbarton Oaks could not solve due to Russian insistence on having a "veto" power on any such decisions, must be decided at a higher level.

Rev. W. M. Blitch, 40 Years Pastor, Is Dead at 78

The Rev. W. M. Blitch, 78, retired Methodist minister, died yesterday at Emory University Hospital following a brief illness. A member of the South Georgia Conference for more than 40 years, he was widely known throughout the state.

Following his retirement from the active ministry in 1931, he served as conference treasurer until one year ago. His last church pastorate was in Vidalia.

Surviving are his wife, of 30 Haygood drive, Atlanta; two sons, P. G. Blitch, of Valdosta, and L. W. Blitch, of the chemistry faculty, Emory University; a daughter, Mrs. J. L. Graham, of Tallahassee, Fla., and a stepson, W. R. Grovenstein, of Palatka, Fla.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Labor Government Is Seen for Britain

BOLTON, England, Nov. 5.—(AP) Emanuel Shinwell, member of parliament from Seaham, forecast a Labor administration for Britain after the European war ends, and said in a speech that Prime Minister Churchill, a Conservative, should be its defense minister.

"The war against Japan will not be over next year," he said. "We must make certain that our military affairs are wisely directed, and there is no reason why a Labor government should not include him."

Britain's national election has been deferred until Germany's defeat.

W. J. Bone, Instructor At Conley, Dies at 70

W. J. Bone, 70, of 505, Montgomery Ferry road, mechanical instructor at Conley, died Saturday night after a long illness.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

Surviving are his wife; a son, Walter J. Bone Jr., of Jackson, Miss.; two grandchildren, Melinda Bone and Walter J. Bone III; and a brother, W. D. Bone, of Stevens Pottery, Ga.

Born in Macon, he lived here for 45 years.

1 percentage point in each state. Obviously, this can be the deciding factor in a number of pivotal states near the 50-50 line.

SUBJECT TO ERROR

Second, both the national and state-by-state percentages reported here are subject to a margin of error of 3 to 4 percentage points, which is inherent in all poll sampling operations.

For most opinion measurements the 3 to 4 per cent margin of error is not a determining factor, but in a state election which is found hovering about the 50-50 line and where the winner takes all the electoral votes with a lead of only 50.1 per cent, then the smallest difference becomes crucial.

Below are the final survey figures of the civilian vote for each of the 48 states. President Roosevelt's gains in electoral votes in certain states result largely from the latest evidence of a large voting turnout.

*FDR MINUS 50, DEWEY PLUS 50.

The figures for Texas in today's table show the major party division of the vote, not including minor parties. The poll found the Texas regulars receiving 12 per cent.

Roosevelt supporters will see in this poll encouragement in at least three respects: (1) Roosevelt is shown with a definite advantage in popular votes, (2) an increase of only 1 or 2 per cent in his national figure—to 52.5 or 53.5 per cent—could lift his electoral vote total as high as 432, (3) he starts with 165 sure electoral votes and therefore needs to add only 101 more to win. By carrying all the states in the pivotal column Roosevelt could win as many as 466 electoral votes.

HOPE FOR UPSET

Dewey followers will scan the state-by-state survey to confirm their hope for a political upset this year. They will be heartened by the fact that there are more populous states near the 50-50 line than in any of the three previous elections in which Roosevelt was a presidential candidate. If the upward trend of Republican party strength, revealed in state and congressional elections of the last year, continues, all the close states will likely fall into the Dewey column. Moreover, the poll has found all during the present campaign that people planning to vote for Dewey show a much greater intensity of feeling about this election than Roosevelt voters, and say they are more certain to vote.

If the national popular vote figure given by the poll comes within 3 to 4 per cent of absolute accuracy in forecasting the popular vote of the winner, the Institute will consider that it has achieved a degree of accuracy highly satisfactory under present wartime polling conditions and restrictions.

Dewey's final campaign plea will follow a rebroadcast, over the Mutual network at 8:30 p. m., of last night's Madison Square Garden speech. In this broadcast, delivered before an applauding crowd that overflowed from the arena into the streets, Dewey declared President Roosevelt's "own confused incompetence" was prolonging the war in Europe.

"Once rid of capricious, personal government," he declared, ". . . we shall reach Berlin and Tokyo quicker—with less cost."

The nominee plans to return Tuesday morning to New York city, where he and Mrs. Dewey will cast their votes.

Hurja Predicts Dewey With 364 Electoral Votes

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Emil Hurja, associate publisher of Pathfinder magazine, today predicted the election of Gov. Dewey by an electoral vote of 364 to 167.

Hurja, formerly an analyst with the Democratic national committee but identified with Republican political activity this year, based his forecast on polls in 28 counties in 15 states which he said had voted for the winner in all presidential elections since 1900.

Red Article 'Crazy' —'Cissie' Patterson

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Medill Patterson, owner-publisher of the Washington Times-Herald, today termed "crazy," a political article carried by the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia.

The Izvestia article, which said there was a rumor that Republican interests were plotting a fake assassination attempt against Gov. Dewey to sway voters in Tuesday's election, also said that support of the Hearst, McCormick, Patterson and Gannett newspapers "betrayed Dewey."

Mrs. Patterson commented: "This article as reported by the Associated Press makes the close alliance between our present administration and that of Mr. Stalin and the Communist party clearer than ever."

will be on a nationwide radio hookup on the four major networks from 9 to 10 o'clock (Atlanta time) tomorrow night. The Democratic national committee, sponsoring the program, said the President would make a brief address during the hour-long program.

Most of his election-eve talks today are expected to be pleas for a big vote. He told his Boston audience yesterday he is anxious to win re-election—although he entered the race reluctantly—because "never before in my lifetime has a campaign been filled with such misrepresentation, distortion and falsehood.

"Never before since 1928," he said, "have there been so many attempts to stimulate in America racial and religious intolerance."

Terming this "really a funny campaign," the President said Republican orators declare his administration has done such a good job on foreign policy, plans for world peace, war production and battle-front fighting—"that it is time for a change."

Speaking in the same city which four years ago heard him say "Your boys are not going to be sent into any foreign wars," the President declared last night this country chose war because it had no other choice.

We got into the war, he said, because we were attacked and the Axis declared war on us.

"I am sure," he declared, "that any real American would have chosen as this government did, to fight when our own soil was made the object of a sneak attack. As for myself, under the same circumstances, I would choose to do the same thing—again and again and again."

The Boston speech was the seventh major address of the campaign, three of which were delivered in huge outdoor stadiums at Philadelphia, Chicago and Boston. Yesterday's speech climaxed a day of active campaigning through Connecticut and Massachusetts, which combine to produce 24 electoral votes.

U. S. WILL DO PLENTY OF VOTING— WASHINGTON CAN ONLY TALK ABOUT IT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(UP)—They're scrubbing up polling booths in 48 states and four U. S. territories tonight but not in the nation's capital—the seat of world democracy.

Washingtonians, voteless by geographical incident, will stay home from the polls Tuesday, just as they have since the nation's founding fathers in drafting the constitution, decreed that a home in the District of Columbia carried the privilege of taxation without the voting franchise.

A number of the city's almost 1,000,000 inhabitants have out-of-town voting residences. Some of these fortunates send absentee ballots; some don't take the trouble. But the natives wouldn't recognize a polling booth if they saw one.

Japs Advance On Liuchow

CHUNGKING, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Japanese pressing their south China offensive converged on the Kwangsi province railway city of Liuchow from three directions today with the nearest column only 45 miles away on the southeast.

The hard-pressed Chinese still held the Japanese back at Kweilin, 95 miles to the northeast, where the enemy had fought into the eastern, western and northern suburbs.

The Chinese high command admitted that the Japanese stormed into Yungfu, 30 miles southwest of Kweilin, and sent a by-passing column 12 miles farther south along the Hunan-Kwangsi railway to within 53 miles northeast of Luichow.

Japanese forces fought on west to within four miles of Hsiujen, 47 miles from the railway city.

An independent Japanese drive in southern Kwangsi province, developing along the West river, was intercepted after it had overrun the river port town of Kweinsien.

Negro Athletic Fields Planned for Atlanta

City administration leaders and a committee from the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce are making preliminary plans for establishment of two new athletic fields for use of Negroes.

Meeting at the city hall, the chamber interracials committee headed by Cherry Emerson, conferred with Mayor Hartsfield and members of council's parks and aviation committee.

The fields not only would provide facilities for sports events, swimming pools, tennis, ball diamonds, but also would be equipped with playgrounds.

Senator George Talks Hard Sense

Sen. Walter F. George, who has been recuperating at home from the effects of a fall sustained at the capitol, made an informal talk last week to some Valdosta businessmen.

Georgia's senior senator talked hard sense. He said, and he was speaking to all businessmen throughout the nation and not merely to those in Valdosta, that there cannot be a lasting peace unless there is full accord between the Allied powers on free interchange of commerce internationally.

Lower taxes, he said, and sound business conditions cannot be achieved without this accord.

We are in complete agreement with the distinguished senator. He is talking the langage of Secretary Cordell Hull and all others who know that nations and peoples must be able to sell to us if they are to buy from us.

Sen. George was not talking politics. Indeed, he refused to discuss the race except to say, facetiously, that he was not greatly concerned about losing his position as chairman of the two important committees he heads.

Nevertheless, he was making a powerful argument for the return of Franklin D. Roosevelt and his administration. Gov. Dewey and the men behind him, the men whom South Carolina's James Byrnes called by name in his great speech a few nights ago, do not believe in full interchange of commerce internationaly. Without this, says the senator, there will not be lower taxes and sound business conditions.

Those businessmen who, irritated by necessary, though exasperating, controls and forms, have been thinking of voting for Dewey might well consider Sen. George's advice.

Civilian Goods Production Increases

The War Production Board, continuing its commendable policy of authorizing resumption of civilian production in areas where labor and plant facilities become available, has already given the green light to 1,287 companies no longer necessary to the war effort.

An impressive list of Georgia manufacturing plants has been authorized to begin immediate production on civilian items ranging from innerspring mattresses to mechanical pencils and agricultural machinery to step-on garbage cans.

The WPB's quick action in these instances gives encouraging indication that reconversion—while it will offer inevitable headaches—is yet being met in a practical, commonsense fashion which will tend to minimize delay.

Good News From Two Sources

From two sources last week, Atlanta's postwar industrial hopes received new encouragement.

Marietta's Bell Bomber plant, Senator Walter F. George told The Constitution early in the week, will probably be kept in operation after the war as a major experimental and manufacturing plant by the Army Air Corps.

While no definite announcement can be made at this time, Senator George, who is in a position to speak authoritatively on the matter, holds forth the hope that this great industrial facility will continue to be utilized in the postwar era.

"I know that progress has been made toward keeping the plant in operation," said Georgia's senior senator. "Naturally, it will not employ as many people as now. But I think it will be able to employ a goodly number of workers in peacetime operation. Some very influential persons are behind plans for the plant and I naturally am interested in it because of its importance to Georgia."

And then, on Thursday, Henry Ford II, executive vice president of the gigantic motor car company which his grandfather founded, confirmed a report which The Constitution has carried earlier in the week: The fact that Atlanta has been picked as the location for a large parts depot which will cost several hundred thousand dollars and employ a couple of hundred men.

These two news items augur well for Atlanta's economic future.

It is of utmost importance that the bomber plant be kept in productive operation and it is good to know that large industrial organizations such as Ford are including Atlanta in their postwar plans.

THE PULSE OF THE PUBLIC

The Constitution welcomes letters from its readers. They must be signed, should not exceed 200 words.

Freight Rates

Editor, Constitution: Reference is made to your editorial in Wednesday's paper relative to Ellis Arnall's speech in Chattanooga and his charge against Dewey in that speech. Haven't you recently informed the people of Georgia and the south that Arnall expected relief through court procedure? Haven't you told us before that appeal had been made in Washington—presumably before the Interstate Commerce Commission? Have we secured anything even remotely resembling relief? Have we any promise, if Roosevelt is elected, the matter will be given favorable attention?

Your first editorials about this sore question were enlightening and timely, and had we teamed up with O'Daniel, of Texas; Jones, of Louisiana, and the Dixon strength in Alabama we would have very likely already had relief. When our Georgia Governor goes to Washington and apparently hands over Georgia's vote for nothing more than a promise for his individual welfare, what can the people of Georgia expect, please? We have lost any bargaining power we might have had or could have developed.

Now in fairness you must admit that Roosevelt has more power than other Presidents—some conferred upon him by congress and many others assumbed by his clever way of reorganization and discharge. He seems to be able to control everything from the supreme court down. He has been President nearly 12 years. If Dewey could help us, Roosevelt could. Roosevelt has had ample time to demonstrate his inclinations, and he has.

Time for a Change

Editor, Constitution: I read the article of Ralph McGill, of October 27, labeled "Roosevelt Psychosis," and it is a timely warning. However, it seems to me an argument against the re-election of Roosevelt for this psychosis affects his worshipers as well as his enemies.

Recently, I called to see an old college friend in a neighboring state and was told that he was in a hospital. His busines associate insisted that I go and see him. The visit was heart-breaking, for I found a dribbling idiot, beating himself on head, crying over and over "Crown Roosevelt King." By the way, this fellow was a newspaperman.

I contend that it is dangerous for our country when governors and cabinet members get this psychosis. When Roosevelt drives part of our people mad with hate, while the other part become crazy with hero worship, then, indeed, it is time for a change.

Communism the Issue

Editor, The Constitution: Since Roosevelt is sick and a tired old man; so sick and so tired that he is being pushed around by alien "isms"—we do not agree with Mr. McGill when he says, "I think that his (Dewey's) encouragement of the campaign seeking to prove that Mr. Roosevelt is a sick man near death is one of the lowest and most inexcusable campaign weapons ever employed."

I will vote against Roosevelt and promise to fight Communism straight through four years more! Frankly, some of us don't give two cents who is elected for the main issue is to keep Fascism, Communism and imperialism out of the U. S. A.

New Laws

Editor Constitution: Never in my memory has a candidate for the most exalted office within the gift of the American people stooped to such low levels. Lies, insinuations, unjust accusations have been injected by the Republican candidate. Mr. Dewey must be very desperate and it seems to me that he is in the same boat as Hitler. Hitler in his desperation said that if "Germany went down, all of Europe would go down with them." From present indications, it looks as if Hitler meant what he said. Mr. Dewey probably feels the same. If he "went down" the Republican party will go with him. Judging by his campaign methods, it looks as if he might succeed. So much for Mr. Dewey.

Capped Climax

Editor, Constitution: It took our good Gov. Ellis Arnall in a speech at Springfield to cap the climax in fantastic figures over farmers' income for he said it was 5,000,000,000 in 1932 and four-fold or 20,000,000,000 in 1939. Whereas, President Roosevelt in his Chicago speech said the 1932 farm income was 2,250,000,000 and in 1939 5,500,000,000, and this year of 1944 was 13,500,000,000. Gov. Arnall doubles the figures his commander in chief said were for 1932 and almost four times what his commander in chief gave for 1939. We all know that there was no manpower or machinery shortage before Pearl Harbor and many leading New Deal papers stated the 1943 farm income as a little over 9,000,000,000 the highest farm income in our history. President Roosevelt's figures for 1932 and 1939 are not far off but I doubt if any intelligent person or farmer would agree that their 1944 income was 50% more than in 1943.

Wisdom-Foresight

Editor Constitution: My brother Victor (at 7 Houston street) sent me your article of October 15 last, commenting on the New York Times' support of President Roosevelt, and I assure you that I enjoyed it very much. I graduated from Emory in 1934.

I am sending this letter through my brother and trust it will reach you in time. I do earnestly hope that the American people once again will show their wisdom and sense of foresight by re-electing Mr. Roosevelt, whose prestige throughout the world is the highest any of our statesmen have ever enjoyed.

RALPH McGILL

He Was Talking About 5-Cent Cotton

He came in and sat down.

"I'm very busy," I said, "and glad as I am to see you I haven't time to—"

"Just came in town to vote tomorrow," he said, taking out his pipe, and settling himself in the chair. "You know I have not been well and have been staying out in the country.

"I been thinking out there. Every time I heard some critic talk about 'that man' I got to thinking about 'that day.'"

"What day?"

"You remember 'that day.' That day when the banks closed. That day when they figured up that under the Republican system led by Herbert Hoover 5,770 banks failed in four years.

"That day when all over this country thousands of farms were being sold, their pitiful household goods stacked beside the auctioneer. You remember in some places the farmers got guns and stopped the sales. You remember how there were stories of sheriffs breaking down and crying as they ordered the sale of some farmer's farm and goods.

"That day when wheat was down from $1.30 a bushel to 53 cents; when cotton was down from 17.9 cents to five cents. A bale of cotton was bringing in, after the charges were off, as little as $15 and $18. Sometimes it was less, down to nothing at all if warehouse charges were high.

"That day of five-cent cotton—and the 'Hoover carts' and the 'Hoover dust'—yes, I remember that day. And that man."

He knocked out his pipe.

"You are right," I said, "and Mr. Roosevelt did a good job pulling us out. But now, if you will . . ."

He was filling his pipe again.

Alphabet Soup "You know," he said, "I hear a lot of people talking about the 'alphabet soup' bureaus. Well, I wonder if they recall 'that day.'"

"What's that got to do with bureaus?"

"Well, we had soup lines then, bread lines. People lined up to get a bowl of soup. Your friend Tubby Walton described that period as one in which a lot of people suffered from a certain colic."

"Colic?"

"Yes, the 'miss-meal colic.' It is worse than any other sickness. You don't linger long with that. We had soup lines until we got the 'alphabet soup' bureaus. With all their mistakes one cannot say that WPA and PWA did not do a good job.

"They raked leaves, sure. Until real jobs could get going there was not much else to do. But ride over this country, ride over your state, and see the new schoolhouses, the new playgrounds, the new bridges, waterworks, courthouses, public buildings, swimming pools, recreation grounds. Yes, see the thousands of sanitary privies that were built which reduced hookworm and other diseases by a startling percentage. The CCC was another alphabet. What if we had left all the thousands of young men in idleness and despair? TVA was another one of the alphabets. It has blessed a valley 650 miles long. It provided flood control and opened up new lands to farmers. A once desolated, flood-ravaged land is safe. Its research department has opened up new means of livelihood for the four and a half million persons of an area as large as Scotland and England. TVA provided in this war more than 12,000,000,000 kilowatt hours of electricity without which our war production could not have approached what it is.

Another "Let's take another. The SEC. That gave the honest broker a virtual certificate his stocks and bonds are honest and it drove the crooked broker and promoter out of business. Were the holding company and utility regulation laws wrong in protecting the consumer?

"Are we sorry we fed the poor and the unemployed? Were we wrong in giving government help to the poor, the crippled and the old?

"And business? Talk about small business help. In 1932 alone 32,000 small businesses failed. In the years before the war such failures were negligible. The net profits of 2,480 companies, in 1939, were more than a billion and a quarter dollars more than the year before. The war has carried them higher. But long before the war the nation was over its Republican headache of the Hoover period.

"As to bureaucrats, no one ever mentions the fact that only a small percentage of them are in the purely war agencies such as War Shipping, OPA, WPB and so on. The civilian employes of the Army and Navy, in this greatest of wars, are among the 'bureacrats.' The critics lump all federal employes as 'bureaucrats,' never mentioning that the greatly expanded post office service counts for thousands. Commerce, treasury, agriculture employes are all bureaucrats. So are those of crop insurance, federal deposit insurance, wages and hours and other permanent agencies, which Mr. Dewey has indorsed. What would they put in their place?"

"I really have got some work to do," I said.

"Why didn't you say so?" he asked. "I just wanted to talk about 'that day' and 'that man.' How do you think I should vote?"

RALPH T. JONES

'Get Out the Vote' Is Slogan for Today

Tomorrow, if you are a good citizen, you will be paying a visit to the voting booth where your name is on the registered voter list, and you will be casting a ballot for your choice for President of the United States for the four years beginning next January.

You will not, of course, vote directly for Roosevelt or Dewey or whoever is the Socialist candidate—I can't recall the guy's name at the moment—but for the electors of the party whose candidate you approve. If Roosevelt, you will vote for the Democratic electors; if Dewey, the Republican.

As a matter of fact, I'm not sure how many presidential candidates there are. There might be a Prohibition party candidate, or even a Communist candidate. None but the big two will get any votes to matter, however. Even Will Upshaw has publicly said he will vote for Roosevelt, and if W. D. Upshaw deserts the prohibition candidate that is something. Whether or not the Upshaw endorsement is beneficial for Roosevelt is, of course, a matter of opinion.

And as for the Communist party, they cast something less than 50,000 votes all over the nation in 1940, so they don't cut any ice. Regardless of the campaign fantastics of the Republican entry.

Of course we all know how Georgia will vote. For Roosevelt. No man of any sense whatever has any doubt on that issue. It is, in many ways, unfortunate that this is, so emphatically, a one-party state. If for no other reason, it is disappointing to those of us who would enjoy a good, hot political campaign. You just can't get excited over the presidential campaign as far as Georgia is concerned. It is a one-hoss race and whoever had heart failure in a case like that?

Interested in the national outcome, to be sure, but we feel kind of out of it in Georgia, at best. If it goes wrong for our side, we'll have that helpless feeling that, anyway, we couldn't have done anything about it. If it goes right for us, that will be pleasing but after all we won't be able to exult like those who were in the thick of the fight.

However, speaking of one-hoss races, there is one way in which even such a race can be made exciting. That is a race against time. So, in a one-sided political race, such as the presidential race in Georgia, we can contribute something and provide a modicum of local excitement by striving to get out the biggest vote we ever did. While the decision is on a basis of electoral votes, yet it will be gratifying to discover that our man piled up the biggest popular vote majority in American history. We in Georgia can contribute to such a result.

If In DeKalb If, perchance, you live and do your voting in DeKalb county there is an added and vital urgency why you should vote. That county is asking its voters to ratify a $1,600,000 bond issue tomorrow. For some badly needed improvements, enlargements and replacements in county properties. Things that must be done just as soon as the ending of war permits resumption of peacetime building activity. And DeKalb wants to issue its bonds now, so as to have the money ready to start her postwar improvement program without delay, when postwar days arrive.

The importance of your vote lies in the laws governing bond elections. Not only must two-thirds of those voting approve the bonds, for ratification, but the votes for bonds must total more than half the total list of registered voters. Which means at least 12,000 votes must be cast in the DeKalb bond election if the bonds are to safely carry.

The Prospects Reverting to the national election, you've all of you, I'm sure, noted and considered the findings of at least half a dozen polls which seek to predict the outcome. Most of them indicate a close race, but they vary in their findings as to which of the two candidates, Roosevelt or Dewey, has the edge. So, after all, you pays your money and takes your choice.

However, I have at my service another political forecaster who has proven quite reliable in the past. I'm not giving away this source. But here's the gist of what he wrote me a week or so ago:

If the total national vote goes above 43,000,000, Roosevelt will win.

If the total vote is below 43,000,000, it is a toss-up.

So you see the importance of a large vote.

Incidentally, another report says the soldier vote is so much larger, in many states, than had been anticipated, it may well prove the deciding factor where the race is close. Which, to my mind, would be highly satisfactory. There would be something rather pleasing to know that the men doing the fighting and the dying, also did the deciding in our presidential campaign. Wouldn't there?

However, anyway, be sure you vote tomorrow. That's important.

Clothes don't make the man.

Slogans Dangerous

A slogan is more powerful than reason.

This truth has been known and used by every person who has made a success of harnessing public opinion.

In his famous book, Hitler told how he would prepare for conquest by first enslaving the minds of the common people. He did not propose to appeal to their understanding, nor to explain complicated issues in terms they could comprehend, but to reduce each issue to a simple catch-phrase and repeat it over and over until it was fastened in the minds of the people and accepted as a principle.

The catch-phrase or slogan might offend reason and violate truth and decency, but it would inspire the people and they would sacrifice and fight and die for it.

America's politicians and publicists have known the value of slogans since we became a nation. Indeed, they played a great part in the fight for freedom. People of middle-age can remember many catch-phrases or words that have influenced the course of our history—such things as the cross of gold, sixteen to one, sound money, remember the Maine, imperialism, the full dinner pail, trust busting, he kept us out of war, normalcy, nothing to fear but fear, economic royalists, the forgotten man, court packing.

The value of a slogan is that it takes the place of thought. Thinking is hard work. Digging into a controversial matter and analyzing it to separate the true from the false is a labor we gladly avoid. Give us a catchy word or slogan that seems to say something and we'll use it thereafter as a substitute for understanding and think we are thinking.

Many good citizens are now saying that a "strong foreign policy" will save us. The words sound good, but whta do they mean? They might mean almost anything, including a policy of meddling where we have no business, making enemies and starting quarrels that would lead to war. Partizan publicists repeat the words gravely as though saying something definite, but they might as well be using double talk.

Another good one is "full employment." That pleases everybody. But what does it mean? Full employment at useful jobs or at leaf-raking? No politician who promises either can make good, for one must be provided by business and the other by congress, and he controls neither.

Slogans are doubly dangerous in times like these. We need clear, honest, hard-headed thnking, and anything that discourages or prevents it is intellectual poison.

Chinese Situation Is Greek To Him

I don't know if anything's rotten in Denmark, but something seems to be awry in China.

News dispatches we've been getting from there have more words deleted than a grammar school version of Tobacco Road.

A typical incident concerned a more-than-500-word cable which an AP correspondent dispatched regarding Vinegar Joe Stilwell's recall. When it reached this country, it had been censored to 10 words . . . none of which was love.

The various newspapers and press associations spend hundreds of thousands of dollars annually keeping correspondents in the Orient. But the average citizen can apparently get a better idea of what goes on in China by talking to his laundryman.

There's one story I like about the current Chinese censorship. Newsweek Correspondent Harold Isaacs, irked when four out of five words of one of his stories were censored, sent the following release:

Late fall in Chungking is unsalubrious as to climate. As a rule, people go to bed at night and get up in the morning and eat three meals of varying adequacy and nourishment. Babies are born here in pretty much the same fashion as elsewhere. As to ladies' fashions, they are rather severely limited by a shortage of materials and wartime conditions generally. Fortunately, Chinese men do not have to shave as often as westerners. Consequently the razor-blade shortage is not a critical matter. In northern China, folks eat noodles and in central and southern China they eat mostly rice. As is fitting for the capital city, people here divide their interests between noodles and rice. There were 44 marriages recorded by the Chungking municipal authorities since last Tuesday. No public notices are available as to divorces. The sports calendar was shortened because most events were rained out.

Farmers Should Support Roosevelt

WASHINGTON—One of the anathemas of the presidential campaign has been the attitude of hostility shown by farm elements against the Roosevelt administration.

There seems little doubt that the farmers of the country, by and large, have gone sour on the administration. Mr. Roosevelt has had to rely chiefly on the great urban centers for support.

The first breaking away of the agrarian groups came with the 1942 off-year congressional elections, when the Democrats failed to carry a single farm district outside of the south. In 1932 and in 1936 these farm areas proved the main source of Roosevelt strength. That was also true to a large extent in 1940. Since then the farmers have been veering away.

This is all the more difficult to understand in view of an illuminating report recently prepared by OPA Administrator Chester Bowles which shows that the American farmer has fared better during the present war than any other general economic group.

The report shows also that the farmer is in a much more profitable and sound position than he was during World War I, when no price controls were in effect.

As an example, between August, 1939, and May, 1944, the articles which the farmer sells increased in prices by 118 per cent while the things he buys went up only 38 per cent.

The contrasting picture in World War I was that the things the farmer sold went up 130 per cent, but on the articles he bought the price increased 98 per cent, or more than double the increase in the present war.

Farm prices, the Bowles report shows, have increased five times as much as the prices of industrial items.

Checking account balances of country banks are 199 per cent greater than in 1939.

Compared with other economic groups, farm income increased 182 per cent between 1939 and 1943 while corporation profits rose only 112 per cent, straight time hourly earnings have increased by 32 per cent, salaries of workers in finance and services have gone up 26 per cent, and the pay of workers in trade and government increased by only 22 per cent.

In addition to this favorable earning position, the farmer has seen the value of his land increase by 36 per cent since 1939—or 1 per cent more than the land inflation between 1914 and 1919.

Moreover, the farmer not only enjoys a measure of prosperity far greater than in World War I, but the government has thrown up safeguards to protect him against a repetition of the ruinous situation which followed the last conflict.

Largely through the efforts of Rep. Paul Brown, of Georgia, and Sen. Bankhead, of Alabama, aided by other southern senators and congressmen generally, provisions were written into the first stabilization act for the support of major farm prices at 90 per cent of parity for two years after the war. That insures a continued measure of prosperity for the farmers after the war is over.

All of these measures add up to the fact that the farmer has fared exceedingly well under the price programs sponsored by the administration. Under the circumstances it would be only reasonable to suppose that the farmers should be thankful to the Roosevelt administration for the benefits they have received.

And yet it seems to be almost the other way. Petty grievances over government controls have proved a source of irritation that has lost the bulk of the farm support to the President. The farmers seem incapable of giving a balanced view to the economic picture as it has developed under wartime conditions. Instead of being grateful for their favored position they are critical of the regulations that have necessarily been put into effect.

GEORGIA EDITORS SAY:

PENAL COMMISSION NEEDED

(Commerce News.)

Gov. Ellis Arnall's proposal to establish a penal commission, which will be made of leading citizens and will function much like the Board of Regents and the Board of Education, is atracting favorable comment.

Such a commission would remove the penal system of Georgia from the power of governors where it would no longer serve as a political football. If such a commission is created the commission could plan and carry out an intelligent and uninterrupted program through a period of years. In this way a better prison system could be built up that would be undergirded by a permanence that it could gain in no other way. Employes could be secured who would make it their life's work and for which they would prepare and devote their entire talents to.

This suggestion of the Governor's is a good one and we hope that the people of Georgia may be allowed to vote upon it.

THOMAS L. STOKES

Roosevelt To Get 322 to 363 Votes

WASHINGTON.—Figuring out this presidential election is difficult, as the professional polling organizations indicate. But that is no excuse. So everybody joins in the quadrennial game, bravely risked red faces and depleted spending money afterward.

A victory for President Roosevelt is predicted on the basis of personal surveys in key states and with account to certain basic and underlying factors, principally involved in the war, which it is believed, will offset the growing dissatisfaction with New Deal domestic policies.

If it weren't for the war, the Roosevelt regime would be swept out of office.

But the war is the overshadowing, overwhelming fact and its influence probably is not always discernible in the polls. It is something that is buried in so many hearts, which stirs about in the back of so many minds. The war still is in a critical stage, apparently with some time to go before victory.

Sampling here and there indicates that a number of people otherwise inclined to vote Republican, including some long-time Republicans, will take second thought when they go into the polling booth and, reversing the Republican slogan, decide that it is not time for a change with the war so well along now under present management.

This will be the case with many parents in middle and upper classes where the largest defection from President Roosevelt has occurred on domestic issues, it is indicated. Republicans have recognized this in the widespread campaign—found by this writer everywhere he has been—to exploit the votes of parents by constant reference to President Roosevelt's 1940 Boston speech, promising "again and again and again" not to send their boys into foreign wars.

President Roosevelt's chief reservoir of strength—labor—will be enlarged this year chiefly through the activity of the CIO Political Action Committee to get full effect at the polls through registration and get-out-the-vote campaigns. This added strength here, coupled with the sizable soldier vote in big key states and parents and independents switching to the President because of the war and post-war world organization interest, will offset defections since 1940 in other groups sufficiently to put Mr. Roosevelt over again, it is believed.

Watching the campaign from the sidelines, as it were, apart from close contact with either President Roosevelt or Gov. Dewey, it is possible to get certain impressions and reactions from the last few days of campaigning.

One is that President Roosevelt's campaign has reacted in his favor and that his strength is increasing since he took the stump. This was manifest in the industrial middle west, at least, where the writer has been visiting—in Ohio, Michigan, Illinois and Indiana. Whether it is enough to swing any one of these states no one knows. The President's personal appearance tended to dampen the whispering campaign about the state of his health.

If there has been any turning point in the campaign, it would seem to have been the President's foreign affairs address.

Another impression is a note of desperation in Gov. Dewey's campaign speeches. For instance his use of the "again and again and again" phrase, unidentified by Gov. Dewey with anything the President said in 1940, but unmistakable to those to whom it has been drummed over and over; and his strong Communism attack in Boston, an issue that may have reached the "wolf" stage now.

This election looks close as to popular vote, with prediction of a Roosevelt victory predicated on small margins for the President in such key states as New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Connecticut in the decisive eastern belt. That's where the election will be decided. Everybody seems to agree on that. The President might break over into the industrial middle west, but the base forecast does not include that.

The base prediction is 322 electoral votes for President Roosevelt, with 209 for Gov. Dewey, with a possible increase to 363, leaving 168 for Gov. Dewey.

There, that's over.

" . . . and rising levels of intelligence and education enable the American voter to separate the wheat from the chaff."—Excerpt from article, "This Is Nothing New."

Let those who sigh for times gone by forbear to raise a cheer
Or sing their lays to buried days of some forgotten year.
We raise our voice and we rejoice, to crown the present hour
The greatest age on history's page since knighthood was in flower.
How nice to find the average mind is better than before,
That little chaps know more, perhaps, of Greek and ancient lore,
Of life and love and stars above and economic ills
Than Annanias knew of lies or Carter knew of pills.
But with us yet, to our regret, are unenlightened souls
Who listen to the ballyhoo that leads them to the polls.
We contemplate the billingsgate they sling, like naughty boys
And pin our hope upon the dope who makes the biggest noise.
"Strike up the band and lend a hand to lift the banners high,
Let's vote for Jiggs or Smith or Briggs, or liberty will die;
The earth will bust its solid crust, the rivers run uphill
And hogs will dine on cake and wine and we'll be eating swill."
And still we go to see the show and still they pack us in,
Tonight they play "King for a Day," tomorrow night . . . "East Lynne";
They flatter us, they tax us and they scare us half to death;
They may not save the country . . . but we wish they'd save their breath!

Communique From Hollywood

I have been helping the Navy recruit WAVES. First thing I did was give them my picture to put up in front of the station. Now I want to catch the guy who put up that sign "Might as well join, girls, this is all that's left." . . . At the recruiting station they put me behind a desk and told me I could use any tactics I chose. It might have been fun but the chain was so short. . . . The WAVES told me I am their pin-up boy and sure enough in the recreation hall there was my picture on the wall. And what a cute idea pinning it up with darts. . . . In the last war my brother was in the Navy. He had charge of the captain's bridge. When the captain was done with it for the day my brother put it in a glass of water. . . . But the girls are naturals for the naval service. It takes sailors years at sea to get that walk. Girls are born with it.

WESTBROOK PEGLER

Truman's Character

NEW YORK.—It would be unfair to Harry Truman to say that he is more politically dishonest than President Roosevelt age 62, because, beyond a certain degree of personal and political cynicism, you reach the superlative. His nomination was a guarantee, however, that if they were elected and Roosevelt should die in office, his successor would be a man of the same, if not possibly lower, moral and ethical standards, equipped by character and experience to carry on the New Deal in the same contempt for decency in politics and office.

The record of Roosevelt's dishonesty has been reviewed in this campaign and no single item has been denied. Admitted are his attempt to pack the courts against the citizens, his deliberate violation of every pledge and plank of his 1932 campaign, his evil collaboration with the criminal gangs of the underworld of unionism and the boss-ruled tyrannies of the city machines, the greedy exploitation of the presidential office by money-hungry members of his family and following, and the purchase of votes and power over congress through the New Deal dole and blank-check appropriations. All these are admitted and he even flaunted his fellowship with corrupt unionism when he selected the brawl of the Tobin goons in Washington as the occasion for his opening speech of the campaign.

The last proposition on which his propagandists now hold out for Roosevelt's election for a fourth term is the threat that if the United States, under Tom Dewey, should refuse to co-operate obediently in every detail of Stalin's postwar program, whatever that may be, even unto the organization of Communist states in Europe, Stalin would turn Europe against us and hold the American Armies as hostages or compel them to fight their way to the transports and home.

What Truman might do as to that, should he become President on Roosevelt's death in office, we do not know, except that he is committed to Roosevelt's intentions and his pledges to Stalin and Churchill.

At home, in domestic affairs, however, Truman's conduct and his morals as President may be anticipated not only on the basis of his humble and acquiescent adherence to the Roosevelt machine in national politics, but on the facts of his own career.

It is impossible to exaggerate the iniquity of the Kansas City machine which sent Truman to the senate after a nomination so defiantly crooked that not even Louisiana, in the days of Huey Long, can match it. His patron was Tom Pendergast, a thief and grafter so greedy that he robbed even his own political workers in the precincts and shook down his own underpaid policemen for money to gamble on the races.

Under Pendergast, who had the informed and unfailing loyalty of Harry Truman, Kansas City was known as a good rotten town. There were brothels running wide open and paying graft to Truman's political master, and there was gambling at the black-jack tables in plain view of the people of the sidewalks, also paying graft—or lug, as they called it, to Pendergast. There were expensive keno parlors operating without the slightest pretense of secrecy, in which hundreds of women surrounded the layouts in the afternons and mixed crowds at night, all draining a steady stream of graft into the office from which Truman walked forth to the United States senate by means of a crooked election.

Pendergast took graft from every conceivable source. He was not fastidious. On two nights shortly before his fall I went through the Kansas City underworld with a lieutenant of detectives, Pendergast's roundsman and collector, and we visited crap games in dives frequented by Negroes where "the law" was greeted confidently and with respect, and dumps in the stockyards.

There was nothing confidential about my mission. I had explained it well and was told that they were hiding nothing because this was the sort of town Pendergast ran and that it was good for business. There was one public restaurant in which the waitresses stripped to their high-heeled shoes.

Pendergast sold concrete for the construction of public works under a monopoly protected by the county board which belonged to him and of which Truman was a member. He sold other building materials and collected tribute on those he didn't sell, himself. He robbed the people in a crooked insurance deal and he held a liquor monopoly which was his political reward for the popular boon of repeal. And, worse, he so corrupted the ballot that the citizens lost their power to vote effectively in the elections.

A staff of reporters started Pendergast to prison with an investigation of fake voting registrations which resulted, eventually, in the elimination of more than 80,000 of Pendergast's dummies and stiffs from the rolls. Yet, Truman, acknowledging this thieving scoundrel, publicly manifested his loyalty and fought to throw out of office Maurice Milligan, the United States district attorney who exposed and prosecuted the Pendergast crooks, including the old man, himself, for the very reason that Milligan had vanquished his boss.

This is the measure of the morals and ethics of Senator Truman and assurance that should they be elected and should Roosevelt die in office, the same regard for the people's ballots and their rights as human beings and citizens would be watchfully maintained by his successor.

And, of course, Tom Pendergast, the most vicious politician of his generation, could expect restoration of his civil rights as a sentimental acknowledgment from the protege who so loyally acknowledged his leadership.

JOSEPHUS DANIELS

Dewey, Bricker and the South

The people of the south pay their share of the big incomes that enrich the automobile, steel, aluminum, electric, refrigerator and monopolistic organizations. But no money comes from these foreign corporations' income taxes to educate the children whose parents contribute to their incomes.

Educators and forward-looking men all over the country are demanding that equal educational public school advantages be enjoyed by all American children. The Democratic national convention at Chicago this year included this declaration:

"We favor federal aid to education administered by the states without interference by the federal government."

Now comes Gov. Bricker opposing the same aid to public schools as is given the states for road construction from the federal treasury. In a recent speech in Missouri, the Republican candidate declared the Democratic party "wants to interfere with local administration and control of education just as it has done in other fields." He added: "We must not under any guise of need open the way for federal domination of education." And then he falsely charged that the attempt to secure federal aid to public schools was being "foisted upon our public school system by Sidney Hillman, Earl Browder and Rex Tugwell."

The proposal came from western and southern Democrats who think the children of their sections ought to have as good schools as Michigan, where their automobile money goes, or New York where millions of their money goes.

Gov. Dewey opposes an end of the 39 per cent discrimination in freight rates against the south, thereby declaring he is against this plank in the Democratic national platform:

"We favor nondiscriminatory charges and declare for the early correction of inequalities in such charges."

Gov. Bricker denounces and misrepresents the school declaration of federal aid to be controlled by the states.

The southerner who votes for Dewey and Bricker votes against the best interests of the people of the south as declared by their denunciation of equal freight rates and the same aid for public schools that is given for public roads.

Dewey, Democrat Ahead in Ohio

A curious and significant evidence of the voter's disregard for party lines in this election has occurred in my own state of Ohio. Despite the efforts of both party organizations to hold their own registered members in line, a popular nonpartisan ticket has spontaneously arisen. Again and again when you ask friends how they are going to vote, they are likely to reply, "Dewey and Lausche." It does not seem to matter whether they are Republicans or Democrats. It means they intend to vote Republican nationally and for the Democratic candidate for Governor.

For the information of readers outside the state of Ohio there are several points of interest regarding this spontaneous ticket. In the first place neither the Republican nor the Democratic organization in the state enjoys complete unity, and neither is by any means so efficient as it has been at times in the past. Ohio has been conceded by most polls to Dewey, but the Democratic candidate for governor, who is now the mayor of Cleveland, is a remarkable fellow. He has a fine record as wartime mayor of Cleveland and he has conducted his gubernatorial campaign on his own without much assistance from the Democratic organization, and he has shown a similar degree of independence in dealing with the wartime complications of labor and industry in his own great industrial city. In other words he has always taken the course of acting upon principle. He has done what he thought right, let the chips fall where they may and this great and rare integrity has won him great popularity with the voters of the state.

In 1942 when the Democrats were scarcely able to elect a dog-catcher in the whole of the United States, Lausche, as Democratic candidate, won 70 per cent of the vote of Cleveland. In the primaries for governor this year he polled, as virtually an independent Democrat, more votes than the other four Democratic candidates combined. His method of campaigning is to go quietly from town to town and tell the people quite simply what he believes would be good for the state of Ohio. He has operated with no campaign fund save contributions of admirers, many of them unknown to him and a good many of them Republicans. As a vote-getter he has few if any rivals in the whole of the United States. He is definitely a man to watch. Whatever the results in Ohio, he is almost certain to run ahead of the national Democratic ticket. He is popular because people know that he is more interested in the welfare of his city and his state than in any personal ambition or desire for power and because you can believe what he says and what he promises.

Now all this is interesting and encouraging to those citizens who believe that the operations of democracy should not rest wholly in the hands of unscrupulous political machines, or in the hands of demagogues and men who "make deals" to advance their power and take pride in being "smart politicians." In a year notable, particularly in the national Democratic party, for cynicism, broken promises, "deals and unscrupulous political tricks, this situation in Ohio is remarkable and renews faith in the belief that democracy from time to time throws to the surface men who are able, honest and honorable and that the people spontaneously recognize them.

The possibility of the split ticket voted by the independent citizen is favored in Ohio by a piece of electoral machinery which other states might well imitate in the interests of good government. The national and state ballots are entirely separate and a voter can vote one way on one and a different way on the other. This is an advantage to that class of voters who, though of good intentions, are sometimes lazy or stupid or careless, and it would be unintelligent to deny that among voters there are not always some who fall into one of these categories. Largely speaking, the voters are no more than a cross-section of the human race.

Separate national and state ballots permit a division of interest in state and national elections. Not always are the best interests of a state served by electing to the governorship a man who belongs to the same party as the candidate for President. Three times during the past six years Ohio has elected a Republican Governor although the state went for a Democratic national candidate. The Governor was John Bricker and the state benefited by the able administration of this Republican Governor.

The independent voter is the most conscientious and often the most valuable element in the operation of democracy. Voting for the best man is a fundamental principle of democracy. The system of separated state and national ballots is a step in the direction of making democracy work as it should. The organization politicians may like it or they may not, according to their interests at the moment but in view of the good of the country, and of democracy, this is unimportant.

Pros and Cons on Tomorrow's Presidential Election

The Constitution welcomes letters from its readers. They must be signed, should not exceed 200 words.

Nation's Welfare

Editor, Constitution: The welfare not only of the United States and its people but the peoples of the world are staggering under the blows of a vicious organization of Germany, directed by Brute Hitler, and while we are fighting for a world peace and begging for protection from ruthless aggressors some of the congressmen right here in our midst are using their influence (if they have any) to further the candidacy of Gov. Dewey and thereby trying to destroy President Roosevelt and the Democratic party by their smooth, slick tongues in whispering attacks which they are afraid to come out in the open with. These congressmen are enjoying $10,000 salaries brought about by the Democratic party. These demagogues are snapping at the hand which feeds them. When another day comes along they should be remembered. Every two years you people of Georgia will have the privilege of voting again.

The farmers and small business have been cleared of debt by President Roosevelt and the threat of bankruptcy no longer stares them in the face. Stand by the Democratic nominee and by so doing stave off another "Hoover depression" headed by Gov. Dewey, the wild man of the Republican party.

Incommunicado?

Editor, Constitution: We were not indignant when Mr. Dewey, as prosecuting attorney for New York city, held certain witnesses under duress and incommunicado. But to avoid arousing our just wrath, and to help his political campaign, he would be well advised to wait until after November 7 before forcibly holding the American people incommunicado, for we do not wish to be prevented from recording our poignant appreciation of how impeccably he and Dulles and McCormick have done those things against our national interest and security that they should not have done, nor from registering our awed admiration of their debonair failure to do those things they should for suffering mankind.

60,000,000 Jobs

Editor, Constitution: FDR, according to your headline Sunday, October 29, promises 60,000,000 jobs in the postwar era. So? He has had control now for 12 years and has not given 10,000,000 jobs. How in the name of blazes is he going to give 60,000,000? Don't expect the public to be so moronic as to believe such senile and absurd statements.

Providence

Editor Constitution: A vast majority of the American people believe with all their heart and soul that Divine Providence is guiding the destiny of our great republic and has heretofore invariably raised up and prepared a great leader to meet the occasion.

Instance George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. If this was true of those two great leaders, how much more is it true of our present great leader, Franklin Delano Roosevelt. Right at this moment we are in the most awful war this old world has ever known, and I thank God that He has raised up and prepared—through much experience—a leader to meet the great demands of the occasion. And history will show when this global war is over and a lasting world peace has been made, that again Divine Providence had given us the man needed for the occasion.

Let us all thank God for Washington, for Lincoln and for Franklin Roosevelt.

Unit System

Editor Constitution: Has it occurred to you that if the county unit system of voting, as used in Georgia, was in effect in the states of New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Michigan and possibly other states, that President Roosevelt would hardly have a chance of carrying any of them in the approaching election?

—M. R. LYON,

Mr. Dewey Forget?

Editor Constitution: We want Roosevelt re-elected. He is making progress in this war and we are willing to trust him. Our hearts have been broken, our homes and happiness wrecked, but he stood by.

Mr. Dewey seems to forget that it is our youngest boys who are dying for freedom.

The poor people can get as much with ration points as the rich ones can. That's what hurts them and, too, they don't seem to like "equal basis."

We are proud to have lived under the leadership of Mr. Roosevelt. He is a Christian man and some people realize we need that most of all now.

It seems that we won't need any congressmen in Washington if Mr. Dewey should be elected, but it will take a better broom to clean the people from Washington that our fathers and mothers put there than he can make. I shall repeat, we trust Mr. Roosevelt enough for a fourth term.

BLANCHE CARTLEDGE.

Prediction

Editor Constitution: It may be of interest to other independent voters like myself as well as to both party organizations to know how a typical independent voter (of which there are at least ten millions) views the outcome of the presidential election regardless of all campaign arguments on both sides, none of which have altered the situation since the conventions of both parties.

It is probable that 46 millions of votes will be cast, of which approximately 25,530,000 or 55½ per cent will be for President Roosevelt. Of the electoral vote the President will have approximately 442 as against Governor Dewey's 89.

The only states safe for Mr. Dewey seem to be Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Nebraska, North and South Dakota and Vermont. Doubtful but probably for Mr. Dewey should be Connecticut, Colorado, Idaho, Indiana, Minnesota, New Hampshire and Wyoming.

For Every 3 Cars Operating in 1939— 4 CARS RUN TODAY

IN ATLANTA, overcrowded cars are the exception, not the rule. Back in 1939, the last normal pre-war year, we had a maximum of 342 street cars, trackless trolleys and buses in daily operation. The number has grown to 455 vehicles at the present time.

That's an increase of 113 vehicles, or 33 per cent. Where three cars ran in 1939, four cars are running now.

Although the number of riders has increased sharply, the number of trolleys and buses in operation has increased also.

In spite of manpower shortage, in spite of the scarcity of new vehicles, in spite of limitations on tires and gasoline (which affect us as well as drivers of private automobiles)—Atlanta is getting peacetime transportation service during wartime. With the exception of certain lines at certain times of day, trolleys and buses are not overcrowded.

Of course, a car will come along that IS overcrowded every now and then. When that happens, let it go past and wait for the next one. The chances are, the overcrowded car is off schedule and another, less crowded, car is right behind. By waiting for the second car, you will arrive at your destination just about as quickly, and more comfortably.

GEORGIA POWER COMPANY

OPERATORS WANTED

To give you even more transportation service, we need more trolley and bus operators. Men, 21 to 45, and women 21 to 35, with no serious physical handicaps, are asked to apply for jobs.

No experience is required because you will be given thorough training. If you are interested in essential work in a permanent type of business which will be here after the war, consider a job as trolley or bus operator.

See Mr. Ben Nixon at Transportation Headquarters, 36 Piedmont Avenue, any day except Saturday or Sunday.

ALL IN THE GAME
JACK TROY

100 Per Cent Wrong I had been getting along very well, indeed, without picking a lot of football games every week and then, hoping to warm up for a chore I'm to do for The Sporting News in a couple of weeks—Pigskin Pete's peerless prognostications—I stuck my neck out last week. If it isn't chopped off, the axe of unpredictable football left a yawning cut.

Let's see. I picked Georgia Tech to beat Duke, Alabama to defeat Georgia and Notre Dame to down the Navy. Duke knocked off Tech, Georgia outlasted Alabama and Navy shellacked Notre Dame.

Boy, if you're going to be wrong, says I, go all the way.

But there was one game I wasn't fooled on. I had Alameda Coast Guard over the University of California; and I also bravely picked Auburn over Presbyterian.

There was a little balm in Gilead, so to speak, as Georgia Tech lost to Duke. The Blue Devils had played a terrific schedule. They lost four straight, playing Penn, North Carolina Preflight, Navy and Army. They were entitled to win one. On the other hand, Georgia Tech came within a foot—Murdock's—and six yards of pulling the game out of the loss column. Tex Ritter's great pass to Murdock came too late for Duke to score again. The score was 19 to 13, and it is quite likely that Dinky Bowen would have kicked the extra point and made it Tech 20, Duke 19. But that's football for you. The Jackets know fate robbed them of at least a tie when Murdock stepped out of bounds. Duke's happy to have pulled out over a previously unbeaten team. It's really not a matter of life and death. Tech easily could have tied, easily could have won.

But it seemed to be something of life and death in the case of the Little Round Man, Wally Butts. He was contemplating sleeping in the basement so he wouldn't be tempted to jump out a window. Butts was feeling lower than a foundered whale just before the Alabama game. The youthful Bulldogs had fumbled away a game to L. S. U. they should have won. And then, in just a little over two hours against Alabama, Butts was back sleeping in the "attic" of his modest Athens home.

That football sure does take a funny bounce, but not nearly as funny as the bounces the forecasters get when they try to pick the results in advance.

'Brass Knucks' Stage The second Saturday in November is coming up. Notre Dame must face Army. The Irish walloped the Cadets a year ago in Yankee stadium, New York. Army can hardly wait to get even. Notre Dame undoubtedly took a pretty heavy pasting from the Navy. The score very likely indicates what kind of a game it was—Navy 32, Notre Dame 13. Finally, those all-stars from Annapolis blocked for one another and exhibited team-work that had been lacking in other games.

Anyway, the second Saturday of November—when football really gets down to the brass knucks stage—also finds Georgia Tech facing Claude (Little Monk) Simons' rampant Tulane Green Wave. Here's what the Tulane publicity department thinks of one of the backs Tech must stop Saturday at Grant field . . .

Oldtimers who have been watching the Tulane Greenies this fall oft have been reminded of Don Zimmerman, the Flying Dutchman of 1932.

The nearest physical and playing counterpart to the Dutrhman since Don's days ended has been scampering the Tulane gridiron. His name, of course, is William A. Jones. "Dub" Jones, he is called. His home is at Ruston, La., his height is 6 feet, 2 inches and his weight is 188.

Playing left halfback for the Wave, Jones in four games, against such competition as Notre Dame, Rice, Auburn and S. M. U., has carried the ball 75 times from scrimmage and has gained 386 yards net, an average of better than five yards a clip.

He has scored two touchdowns, converted six out of eight extra point trys, kicked a field goal to beat Auburn and has returned 18 punts and kickoffs for a total of 301 yards.

In four games, he has thrown passes for 63 yards and intercepted one against Notre Dame for a 26-yard return.

On top of all these statistics, he has set up numerous pay-off plays with his timely runs from scrimmage.

Ed McKeever, Notre Dame coach, in speaking at the Chicago Quarterback Club on October 23, said:

"I'd call Jones, of Tulane, the best back Notre Dame has faced this year with Girard, of Wisconsin, the second best."

State Rolls On I'll be willing to pick a bowl team from the Southeastern Conference at this time. It's Mississippi State. State, coached by Allyn McKeen, not only is unbeaten, but is going to be that way when the season ends. State is

Irish Meet Army In Annual Classic

By JACK HAND.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Notre Dame rides straight from a buffeting at the hands of Navy's awakened football giant into the path of the touchdown-minded Army Cadets in New York's annual subway classic Saturday to headline an Armistice Day card that may see more than one perfect record club run up the white flag.

Navy Ready For Anybody, Thinks Rice

By GRANTLAND RICE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—There will be new national rankings in the wake of Saturday's hurricane.

Navy moves up front, Notre Dame falls back, and Ohio State can challenge any No. 1 team that might be named. Georgia Tech is another that slips back and Purdue is another that gains ground. Army's real status won't be known until after the Notre Dame test. But at this point on the calendar I doubt if any team in the country could whip Navy, now that Navy has found itself. The Middies have too good a line and too many fast, hard-hitting backs.

I can say for Notre Dame that neither Coach Ed McKeever nor his squad feel any letdown after the Navy contest. They realize they have faced one of the best forward walls any college team has had in years—big, fast, experienced and well coached.

But in scouting the Irish, Coach Red Blaik of Army saw a dangerous Notre Dame passing attack that will be even more effective if his Army line falls much below the Navy standard, which is the top standard in football today.

On the season's play to date Ohio State's star civilian team will be hard to displace from the top spot. The Buckeye delegation not only has a strong line but in Les Horvath has one of the star backs of the season.

Michigan, supposed to be badly crippled by the loss of Bob Nussbaumer and Bob Wiese, her two stars, has a lot more left than many ever dreamed about. Ask Pennsylvania.

Georgia Tech, Michigan State, Oklahoma Aggies, Alabama and Iowa State joined Notre Dame in suffering their first defeats last Saturday, but Army, Ohio State, Randolph Field, Wake Forest, Mississippi State, Yale and Norman (Okla.) Navy still rank among the major unbeaten and untied powers. Southern California, twice tied, and Tennessee, which played a scoreless game with Alabama in early season but hasn't lost yet, also scored victories.

Although the Irish ground game was shackled by Navy's power-laden forward wall, the South Benders showed enough in a last-half passing attack to give Coach Earl "Red" Blaik, of the Army, an idea of the kind of homework the Cadets need in practice this week.

NAVY GETS GOING

The Army skipper spent a busman's holiday watching the Middies thump Notre Dame, 32-13, in Baltimore, while his future generals romped over prostrate Villanova, 83-0, their largest total in six victories and third high in Academy history.

Not since 1942, when Michigan did the trick, had another college team been able to humble the Irish, but the Navy, finally living up to glowing September press notices, did a real job, with Fullback Clyde Scott, a plebe from Smackover, Ark., doing the bulk of the steam-roller work.

Duke's 19-13 upset of Georgia Tech, which had downed Navy, ranked high on the list of surprises. The Blue Devils, beaten four times, meet another unbeaten-untied power in Wake Forest this week. The Deacons took the Southern Conference lead by shading Clemson, 13-7. Georgia further complicated the southern picture by overturning Alabama, 14-7.

RANDOLPH ROMPS

Ohio State came from behind with a rush to whip Indiana, 21-7, after a tough struggle, but draws an easier opponent in its next game when much beaten Pitt invades Columbus. Northwestern's 14-14 tie with favored Minnesota was a surprise, and the Iowa Seahawks again proved their right to a high national ranking by smothering Tulsa, 47-27.

Randolph Field outclassed North Texas Aggies, 68-0, in a shortened 46-minute game to hold its own in the ratings and Michigan did itself no harm in running over Penn, 41-19, in a display of pure power. The Wolverines' meeting with Buddy Young's Illinois team should be one of the week's high spots.

The Oklahoma Aggies were knocked off by Norman Navy, 15-0; Iowa State fell before Oklahoma, 12-7, in the game that probably decided the Big Six title although the Sooners still have to play Missouri, the team that ruined Michigan State's perfect record, 13-7. Texas bounced back to trample S. M. U., 34-7.

Mississippi State took over the Southeastern Conference lead and a probable bowl bid by pouncing on Kentucky, 26-0. Tennessee blanked L. S. U., 13-0, in a night game.

ROUNDUP OF RESULTS

Yale had to go all out to protect its perfect chart against Dartmouth, the Elis skinning through, 6-0, and Southern California had a close call before topping San Diego Navy, 28-21. Alameda Coast Guard stopped California, 12-6, and March Field landslided U. C. L. A., 35-13.

Other results:

East—Cornell thumped Columbia, 25-7, but plays Navy this week; Penn State slaughtered Syracuse, 41-0, Coast Guard Academy trimmed Brown, 20-0; West Virginia nosed out Temple, 6-0, and Virginia downed Maryland, 18 to 7.

Midwest—Purdue poured it on Wisconsin, 35-0; Kansas beat the Olathe Clippers, 33-14.

South—South Carolina won over North Carolina, 6-0; North Carolina State smacked V. M. I., 21-6; Jackson Army Air walloped Mississippi, 10-0; Texas Christian outscored Chatham Field, 19-7, and Auburn beat Presbyterian, 57-0.

Southwest—Texas Tech 13, Rice 7; Arkansas 7, Texas Aggies 6.

Giants Swamp Boston, 31-0

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The New York Giants powered their way on the ground for three touchdowns, added another through the air and put in a field goal for good measure today to overwhelm the Boston Yanks, 31 to 0, in a National Football League game at the Polo Grounds.

The Giants, remaining in the running for the league's eastern division title with a record of four victories and one defeat, were complete masters of the situation as they checked all except two of the Yanks' drives outside of the 25-yard line. The Herb Kopf eleven, winner of only one of its six games, drove to the 6-inch line in the second period, and the 11-yard mark seconds before the final whistle, but both times pass interceptions gave the Giants the ball.

Sixteen penalties were called against the two teams to tie the league record. The Giants lost 80 yards via 12 penalties and the Yanks 20 in four infractions of the rules.

Camp Peary Wins

CAMP LEE, Ga., Nov. 5.—(AP)—A second half burst of power that saw Andy Uram, former Minnesota and Green Bay Packer star, open the scoring with a beautiful 80-yard runback of the kickoff, sent the Camp Peary Pirates to a 41-0 win over Camp Lee today.

Van Buren Stars In Eagle Victory

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Steve Van Buren, the moving van who played in the Louisiana State backfield a year ago, gave a display of broken-field running today as he and his Philadelphia Eagle mates defeated the Brooklyn Tigers, 21 to 7, in a National Football League game.

Van Buren cut to his right before reversing his field and sprinting 44 yards for the Eagles' first touchdown in the opening frame. A few minutes later the identical formation was good for 71 yards and another touchdown.

All through the game, witnessed by 15,289 fans, the 200-pound pro freshman was a threat with his speed around the ends and on kick returns.

The Eagles, tied with the Washington Redskins for the eastern division lead, struck for their third touchdown in the second on a pass and run play that went 54 yards, Roy Zimmerman flipping 33 yards to Mel Bleeker who then galloped 21 yards.

Maroons Only Team In Conference On 'Perfect' List

By The Associated Press.

Mississippi State, only Southeastern Conference football team still with a perfect season's record, today holds undisputed possession of the league lead with two victories in as many conference games.

The Maroons whipped Kentucky, 26-0, Saturday, as Georgia Tech, the defending champion, was knocked off the nation's select list by Duke, 13-19, after five straight wins against no losses.

The "Ramblin' Wreck" shares second place in the conference with Tulane, only member idle the past week.

Tennessee, with four wins and a tie, is fourth after a 13-0 win over Louisiana State.

Georgia, an up-and-down team all year, hit the heights at Birmingham Saturday to upset favored Alabama, 14-7, virtually eliminating the Crimson Tide from the race.

Mississippi bowed to Jackson Air Base 10-0, Auburn swamped Presbyterian 57-0, and Florida beat Miami 13-0, in three non-league games.

In games this week, Mississippi State goes against the up-and-coming Auburn team, Georgia Tech tangles with Tulane, Alabama meets Mississippi, Florida plays Georgia, and Tennessee, Kentucky and Louisiana State are idle.

Lions Trounce Card-Pitts, 27-6; Sinkwich Stars

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 5.—(UP) The Detroit Lions defeated the Pittsburgh Steelers-Chicago Cardinals combined National Football League entry by a score of 27 to 6 at Forbes field today before a crowd of 17,743 disappointed fans.

While Sinkwich, former All-American from Georgia, stood out in the Lions' victory, he was surpassed in the individual ground-gaining race by the losers' hard-plunging fullback, Johnny Grigas.

Entering the game as league leader, Sinkwich carried 10 times for 30 yards net gain. Grigas, formerly in third place, carried 30 times for a net yardage of 117, boosting the former Holy Cross star's total to 431.

Sailors Swamp Marquette, 45-7

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Great Lakes flashed a devastating attack to smother Marquette, 45 to 7, in the Hilltoppers' final home appearance of the season today.

The Bluejackets ground out a net of 218 yards rushing and completed six out of eight forward pass attempts for an additional 159 yards to dominate the play all the way.

Great Lakes rolled up 32 points in the first half and after going scoreless in the third period added two more touchdowns and one conversion in the last quarter.

Chuck Avery and Gene Delaney scored twice for the Sailors and Jim Mello, Art Teixera and Paul Crosby each made a touchdown, Mello adding three points by conversions.

Paul Copoulos scored Marquette's lone touchdown in the second period after returning a kickoff 73 yards to the Sailors' 16-yard line. Mel Mochalski converted with a placekick to provide Marquette's seven points.

Holy Cross Knocked From Unbeaten Ranks

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 5.—(AP)—A lightly regarded football team from the U. S. submarine base at Groton, Conn., knocked Holy Cross from the undefeated ranks by registering a 6-0 upset victory today.

Led by Ezra Ormsbee, former Bradley Tech star, the sailors swept 62 years in four swift plays for the game's lone touchdown midway through the final quarter.

Ormsbee raced the first 25 of these yards at the receiving end of a forward-lateral from Bob Combs to Tom Felt to Ormsbee. Then he passed 32 yards to Frank St. Peter. And after Combs had crashed center for three, Ormsbee circled an end for the touchdown.

Smithie Alumni Will Meet Tonight

The Tech High Alumni Association will hold its regular monthly meeting at 6:30 p. m. tonight at Wooding's Cafeteria.

All members are urged to be present. Reservations may be made by calling Bob Callahan at RA. 3460.

Gould Hits Bogey

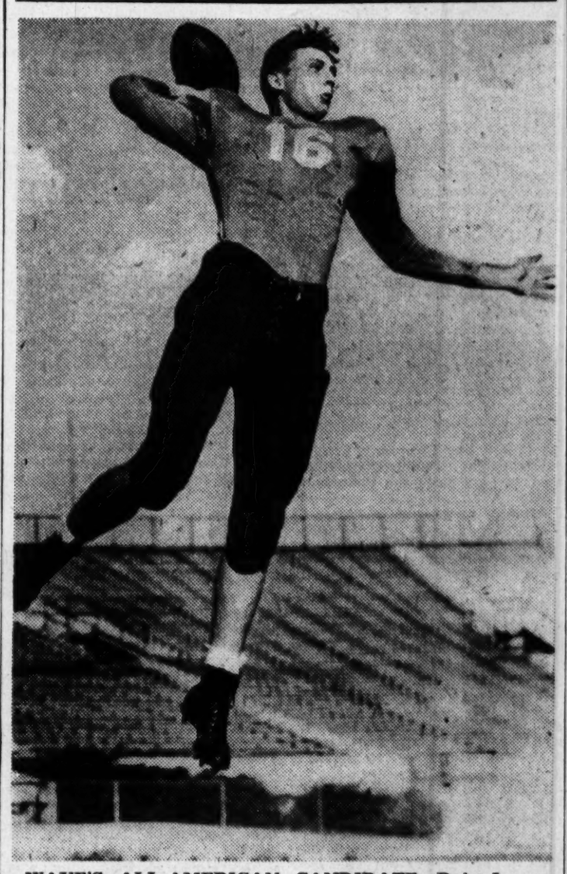
Charlie Gullatt, C. W. Condiff, James F. McCormick scored 72's, and Jake Friedman, B. J. Cornett and L. J. Richheimer tallied 74's to tie for second place.

SPORTS



WAVE'S ALL-AMERICAN CANDIDATE—Dub Jones is a back that followers of the Tulane Green Wave are booming for All-American honors this year, and his play has been outstanding in every game the Greenies have played this year. He is one of the best ball carriers the New Orleans team has had in years and in addition has an unerring toe on points after touchdown. Jones and Tech's Dinky Bowen may match toes in this respect when the two teams meet at Grant field Saturday. (See Jack Troy's All In the Game.)

Trippi Leads Gremlins To Win Over Ga. Navy

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Gorgeous Georgia Charley Trippi spearheaded the Third Air Force Gremlins to a 34-to-12 victory over Georgia Preflight in a spectacular battle here today.

The 185-pound Gremlin ace whirled through a host of tacklers in the first period for a 33-yard score. Shortly after the second period opened Trippi hurled a 13-yard scoring pass to End Henry Piro, of Syracuse.

Georgia Preflight scored its first touchdown in the second period when Frank Stanczak, LaFayette, pitched a lateral to Wisconsin's Pat Harder, good for 26 yards. A 20-yard pass from Trippi to Ernie Bonelli, former Pitt wingback, gave the Gremlins their third touchdown in the third period.

The first of two Gremlin touchdowns in the fourth period came when Ted Cook, Alabama end, made a dazzling one-handed stab of Frank Granitz' 13-yard pass. The Preflighters came back for a touchdown when Stanczak faked a right end run and turned sharply to pass to End Ted Scruggs, Rice, for a total gain of 59 yards. The scoring ended late in the game when a 38-yard running-lateral play from Frank Gnup, Manhattan, to Washington State's Bob Kennedy gave the Gremlins their fifth touchdown. Four of the Gremlin extra points were converted by John Seltenreich, Battle Creek, Mich., high school star.

Green Bay Is Handed Resounding Loss By Chicago Outfit

By WALT BYERS

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—(UP)—The Chicago Bears, whose 1943 National Football League title has been tarnished by two defeats, regained most of their lost prestige today at Wrigley Field as they handed the title-bound Green Bay Packers their first defeat of the season, 21 to 0, in a rough-tough game before a capacity crowd of 45,553.

It was Ens. Sid Luckman, the Bears' master strategist and passer, who ended the Packers' six-game winning streak by pitching two touchdown passes and scoring once himself.

PACKERS BOG DOWN

But the story was told on a soggy field where the Packers' vaunted ground attack bogged down before a Bear line that was geared for glory and which held Green Bay to only 49 yards in rushing.

Throwing Fullback Ted Fritsch and Halfback Ivy Comp—two of Green Bay's top running backs—for loss after loss, the Bear forward wall shut out the Packers for the first time in 66 games. Another record streak went by the boards today as Don Hutson, Green Bay's all-time pass receiving star, was held scoreless. It was the first time in 41 games the veteran end has not scored, either by touchdown or conversion.

LUCKMAN PITCHES

In winning their third game of the season, the Bears struck in the first quarter when they marched 72 yards in 14 plays with Jim Fordham, former Georgia fullback, doing the major ground gaining. Luckman sneaked over for the touchdown from the one.

Luckman, playing his second game since returning from a month's service on the high seas with the Maritime Service, started pitching in the third quarter. He tossed 41 yards to Ray (Scooter) McLean in the end zone for one touchdown and then came back two minutes later and passed 12 yards to end George Wilson, who took it on the 12 and scored. Guard Pete Gudauskas converted all scores.

The Packers' only threat was the Comp-Hutson passing combination, but the cloest they came to the Bears' goal line was the 19-yard line.

Bainbridge Clips N. C. Navy, 49-20

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Nov. 5.—(UP)—After letting undefeated but tied N. C. Preflight take a 14-13 lead midway in the second period, Bainbridge Naval Training Station came back strong to retain their perfect record and defeat the Cloudbusters, 49-20, here this afternoon before a crowd of 15,000.

Bainbridge struck through the air for all but one of its scores. Alfred Vanderweghe, former William and Mary star, snared three of the aerials to lead the scoring parade. Touchdowns were put over in every period, along with two points gained by a safety in the third quarter.

The Cloudbusters, remaining scoreless in the opening period, crossed into pay dirt twice in the second period, and gained their final six points with less than a minute to play.

Mt. Olive Congregation Clears Debt

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

"Walk together, chillun',
Don't you get weary,
The Great Camp Meetin'
In de Promised Land."

Thus sang the congregation of the Mt. Olive Baptist church yesterday when Dr. Ryland Knight and I, invited by the pastor, Dr. W. W. Weatherspool, attended the happy event in which Dr. Weatherspool presented to the congregation the official receipt for the final payment on the church's indebtedness.

This story goes back several years ago to the time when the Fulton superior court appointed Dr. Knight, Dr. Ellis A. Fuller and me receivers in litigation then pending in the court with reference to this debt. When Dr. Fuller left Atlanta for his new post of duty in Louisville, Ky., John H. Hudson was appointed to take his place.

Through the sacrifices of the congregation, the debt had been reduced to $23,153.54 on the first of January, 1944. Dr. Weatherspool asked us to petition the creditors to permit the church to pay at least $10,000 on the debt this year. The request was granted, allowing a credit of $2,000 if the congregation would raise $8,000. This was accomplished by midsummer, leaving a balance of $13,153.54. A few days ago Dr. Weatherspool presented another check, covering the entire balance, and yesterday exhibited the receipt for the full and final settlement of the debt.

Mr. Olive Baptist church, located at the corner of Harris and Butler streets, was organized in 1885, under the leadership of the Rev. W. R. Clements. The present meetinghouse was erected in 1924, under the leadership of Dr. J. M. Nabrit. On the cornerstone appear these words: "For the praise of God and the salvation of men." Dr. Weatherspool has been pastor of the church since 1938. It has a membership of 846.

6,000 Wounded GIs 'Reconditioned' Weekly

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The Army now is able to return wounded soldiers from reconditioning classes at the rate of 6,000 a week, Surgeon Gen. Norman T. Kirk reported today.

In addition, about 2,000 other wounded veterans, who have gone through the course designed to fit them for active life, are being discharged each week.

Of 229,212 soldiers wounded since the beginning of the war, 105,449 have returned to duty, the War Department announced recently.

Thriving Britain Held Essential To U. S. Peace

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(UP) An official British source, outlining what he termed "America's stake in British prosperity," said tonight that the only way Britain can continue to be of commercial and military value to the United States after the war is by the re-establishment of her immense export markets.

The source, who declined use of his name, said that Britain's value to the United States has been proven during the war and he added, with regard to world security, that it is just as important to this country as to Britain that Britain should be a prosperous, well populated industrial nation serving extensive export markets.

"In simplest terms," the source said, "the importance of Britain to America's national interest is three-fold: (a) as a customer; (b) as a base for military operation in Europe, if they become necessary for the defense of the United States, and (c) as a powerful military ally.

"As a customer, Britain bought American exports totaling $521,000,000 in 1938. In prewar years she was consistently the biggest foreign customer of the United States. Britain is, in fact, so big a customer that economists agree that her purchases or lack or them are enough to tip the balance between prosperity and slump in America.

"As a military base, Britain is the only piece of land in friendly hands, big enough, and within reach of the continent of Europe on which a large American force can assemble for launching an attack.

"As a powerful military ally, Britain is the only country which, at the same time, is easily reachable from the United States and has a world-encircling system of bases and defense outposts."

Washington Plans Commerce Parleys

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—More international commercial conferences, and establishment of a policy-making United States board of trade are being discussed by Commerce Department officials.

The idea is to clear the way, step by step, for a better commercial understanding among nations and to focus all angles of this country's international commerce in one agency.

Three particular international conferences under discussion would:

Draft reductions in tariff barriers throughout the world.

Discuss commodity agreements and establish some kind of international commodity organization to deal with surpluses and promote new industrial uses of such primary products as cotton, wheat, rubber, petroleum, tin and copper.

Discuss cartel problems, the most urgent question being elimination of restrictive practices to which our Justice Department has objected in past cartel agreements.

Focal point of national commercial planning, in the program under consideration, would be a group similar to the British Board of Trade, which could serve as a solid front for American business in international trading.

Quitman Seaman Home on Visit

QUITMAN, Ga., Nov. 5.—Malachi Rich, U. S. N., who was seriously injured when his ship was torpedoed in the Mediterranean in May, has arrived in Quitman for a visit with his mother, Mrs. E. W. Rich.

Malachi received serious injuries to his back and foot and was at a hospital in Gibraltar for several weeks before being flown to the states. He has been in a hospital in New York several months and is now out of his cast, but is still on crutches. After a 30-day visit here he will go to a Navy hospital in Jacksonville for further treatment.

loaded—l-o-a-d-e-d. I happened to know a little something about that in midsummer, so in writing a forecast for the Street & Smith Yearbook I picked States as the surprise team of the conference. On that one, I am right.

State uses the Tennessee system, a la Bob Neyland. McKeen is a former player for Neyland. Ed Molinski, who played a great game of guard for Neyland, is assisting McKeen. Billy McWilliams, one of the country's best prep backs last year, is the sparkplug of the Maroons.

Miami's Orange Bowl is eyeing Mississippi State. It is possible, too, that the Maroons are under consideration by the Sugar and Cotton Bowls. But I know that Miami is really interested.

Poor Penn Pennsylvania has run into the sort of trouble that may be coming up for Notre Dame. Penn ran afoul of mighty Michigan Saturday and lost the second game in a row.

Ohio State still wasn't taking no for an answer in the game against Indiana (Buckeyes 21, Hoosiers 7). And, incidentally, I suggested that Wabash moon wouldn't be shining so bright after that one. You can't miss 'em all. Ohio State, minus Coach Paul Brown, who recently was chagrined no little as his Great Lakes team got beat by his old school, now has won six in a row. Brown is just on a leave of absence and he'll be mighty glad to get back in collegiate harness.

A note we don't want to miss in the national football scene has to do with old Eli Yale. The Blue has won five in a row and remains unbeaten.

Powerful Army, scuttling Villanova by 83-0 Saturday, served notice to the Fighting Irish that there will be no rest for the weary in the annual scrap at Yankee stadium this weekend.

Leyte Key Falls; 12 Jap Ships Bombed

By The Associated Press.

Elements of the American 24th Division have captured Pinamopoan, key communications center on Leyte Island's northwest coast, and are advancing south on the main road toward Ormoc, Gen. MacArthur's Philippines headquarters announced today.

Adm. Nimitz announced that Liberator bombers attacked nine Japanese transports and two destroyers at Chichi Island and one large transport at Haha Island, in the Bonins, 600 miles southeast of Tokyo. Apparently the transports were attempting to reinforce a garrison in the last of the Japanese far western strongholds. Results of the bombing were not observed.

Pinamopoan was taken after the 24th launched a simultaneous land and sea assault. The town is the northern anchor of the only highway through a narrow valley leading toward Ormoc, 20 miles southward.

BIG GUNS ROLL

American artillery has been placed forward, the MacArthur communique reported, "and enemy positions throughout the Ormoc sector are now under its fire."

Meanwhile, elements of the 24th Corps have pushed 14 miles northward, along the coast toward Ormoc, likely locale of the Japanese last-ditch fight for Leyte.

Elements of the 7th Division of the 24th Corps several days ago reached Baybay, a coastal town some 26 miles south of Ormoc. Their 14-mile advance was made from this point.

Enemy air activities have dwindled, the communique added, and "were light and ineffectual."

Japanese reinforcements during the past three days have been sent northward along the Pinamopoan-Ormoc highway, under constant American aerial strafing. Americans of the 24th Division apparently were headed toward a direct clash with them.

SMASH 167 PLANES

American airmen, repeatedly hitting Japanese airfields in the central Philippines, destroyed or damaged 167 planes in five days, blunting the edge of enemy plane attacks on American ground troops pressing forward on Leyte Island.

The air blow ranged from Leyte to Cebu and Negros islands, cratering Japanese airfields and smothering air opposition.

Liberators started fires and set off explosions in a heavy attack on Koror Island in the northern Palaus Thursday. Accompanied by Thunderbolts, the big four-engined bombers also raided Pagan Island in the Marianas both Thursday and Friday, damaging the airfield.

Rota, northwest of Guam, and Yap, to the southwest, also were attacked.

The Japanese cabinet and its recently-appointed advisory group held a two and one-half hours "general discussion" meeting yesterday at Premier Kuniaki Koiso's official residence, Tokyo radio reported.

AMERICANS DIGGING COAL IN MINE PARTIALLY HELD BY GERMAN FORCES

WITH THE U. S. FIRST ARMY IN GERMANY, Nov. 5.—(AP)—A front line coal mine in Germany partly in enemy-held territory and partly behind the American lines has been put into operation by the military government detachment attached to the First Army.

The main opening of the mine is in Alsdorf but there is one shaft opening into territory held by the Germans. This tunnel is sealed off by a 20-foot bulkhead and while fighting goes on a few hundred yards away civilian miners are digging coal.

France Invites FDR and Hull

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(UP) President and Secretary of State Cordell Hull have been invited by the French provisional government to visit Paris so that the French nation can express to them their appreciation for the "outstanding contribution" by the United States in liberating France, it was announced tonight.

It was assumed that at least President Roosevelt would accept because the State Department, which made public the invitation, usually withholds publication of such notes until acceptance is assured. Hull's acceptance is more doubtful. He has been away from his desk for more than a month and has spent the last two weeks in Naval hospital.

The invitation comes just three days after announcement in London that Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Foreign Minister Anthony Eden had accepted a similar invitation.

Georgian, Jap Prisoner, Is Believed Killed

DUBLIN, Ga., Nov. 5.—Pvt. Charles L. Dixon, of Laurens county, a prisoner of the Japanese since the fall of the Philippines, was believed to have been killed recently when a Jap freighter transferring prisoners of war was destroyed during the recent American landings on Leyte island in the Philippine group.

That is what the War Department has informed his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dewell Dixon, who now live near Macon.

Pvt. Dixon was a member of the American forces under Gens. MacArthur and Wainwright, that fought off the Japanese invasion of the Philippines in 1942 until the fall of Corregidor. Since he was taken prisoner, his parents had heard from him only once, when they received a card in September, 1943.

World Traveler To Speak Here

International religious problems as viewed in world travels as minister of the missions council of the Congregational churches will be presented to the people of the Atlanta area tomorrow night by the Rev. Dr. Albert D. Stauffacher of New York. Dr. Stauffacher will speak at Central Congregational church, Ponce de Leon and Piedmont avenues, as the third of a series of eight outstanding Protestant clergymen being brought here by the church as a special contribution to the religious and cultural life of the region.

Rev. Dr. Stauffacher.

Spending several years as a missionary in Japan, Dr. Stauffacher gained an understanding of those who are now enemies of the United States. A letter to Dr. Thomas Anderson, pastor of the church, from the noted divine says in part: "One of the most urgent tasks before the church today is to become articulate in the new world order which is being born. The aggressor nations must be made to see that no gains for humanity can be made through armed force."

Dr. Stauffacher has preached in many American pulpits and has been guest preacher in some of the most famous pulpits in England, Europe and the Far East. He is one of the acknowledged pulpit orators of the present day.

David Klein, Father Of Two Atlantans, Dies

David Klein, 66, of Mobile, Ala., died there yesterday.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Sam R. Greenberg & Company.

Survivors include a son, Pvt. L. D. Klein, of the Army, stationed at Fort Benning; three daughters, Mrs. M. K. Gershon and Mrs. Henry Miller, of Atlanta, and Mrs. Joseph Gardberg, of Mobile; a brother, Meyer Klein, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and a sister, Mrs. Tokman, of Minneapolis, Minn.

Connally Hails Peace Progress

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(UP) Tonight, on the first anniversary of the passage of the now historic Connally peace resolution, Sen. Tom Connally, Democrat, Texas, called for "big public sentiment" to spur congress on towards realization of the peace goal.

"The senate can make a resolution expressing its sentiment, as it has, but when it comes time to translate this into an effective structure for security we must have an aroused public opinion behind us," he said in an interview. "That is the greatest task ahead."

Connally hailed the "strides" made since November 5, 1943, when the senate went on record, 85 to 5, with a resolution to wage the war until complete victory, to co-operate in securing a just peace, and to join an international organization to prevent aggression.

He reviewed Secretary of State Hull's mission to Moscow last October and the resultant Moscow declaration of October 30, the Dumbarton Oaks preliminary agreement of the big powers on an organization, and the increasing awareness in this country of the need for a new world order.

Connally expects two stumbling blocks—the question of allowing one of the big five to vote in case of its own aggression and the authority delegated by congress to the American representative—soon to be cleared up.

Bug 'Squadmen' Seize 2 Stills, Nail Fugitive

In making their regular Sunday rounds, J. D. Johnson and Roy L. Sawyer, members of the Fulton county lottery squad, destroyed two 500-gallon groundhog liquor stills, ruined nearly 1,000 gallons of fermented mash and beer, caught an escaped Fulton county prisoner and seized another Negro for possession of a quantity of untaxed whisky.

Johnson and Sawyer, active against Atlanta "bug" operators, discovered two elaborate stills not more than 500 feet apart in a ravine on Redwine road Sunday afternoon. After pouring out 1,000 gallons of mash, which was ready to be distilled, they destroyed the stills, which they estimated had been running for six or eight months, just four miles from East Point. The stills were located on the old Peacock place on Redwine road.

On the way to the two stills, they stopped and picked up Frank Douglas, Negro, of 495 Hightower street, for possession of non-tax-paid whisky. On the return trip, Johnson and Sawyer got a call to go to the corner of Fairlie and Walton streets, in the center of Atlanta, where they apprehended Robert Lee Grimes, Negro who escaped from a Fulton prison camp in October, 1943. Grimes has a long record of crimes, running from burglary to assault and stabbings. He was serving a four-year sentence when he escaped.

THANKS FOR VICTORY

Atlanta's Greeks Celebrate Liberation of Homeland

Panos Constantinides, pastor of Atlanta's Greek Orthodox church, yesterday received the city's permission to ring his church bell from dawn until dark on the day members of the "Army, Navy, Marines and Air Force come home victorious."

Sitting on the front row of the Pryor street church, among almost 1,000 Atlantans of every denomination who celebrated the liberation of Greece, Mayor Hartsfield nodded his head in approval when Pastor Constantinides voiced a desire to toll his church bell all day when the entire world is freed and at peace.

The church, which has sent more than 200 men and one WAC to fight with American forces, paid tribute to one victory of this war—the liberation of its members' homeland. But the congregation was not unmindful of the victories yet to be attained before a day of complete celebration is in order.

TWO-HOUR SERVICE

The two-hour service, beginning at 11 a. m., was similar to the Easter worship in the Greek Orthodox church. It began with holy communion and the Divine Liturgy of St. John Chrysostom. This service includes the priests' prayer for "victory over the tyrant and the aggressor" . . . for "nations united to win liberty, justice and a lasting peace for mankind."

Hymns sung during the session included "Christos Anesti," an Easter song, and "Ti Epermaho," the music sung by emperors and soldiers returning to Constantinople during the days of the Byzantine Empire after they had conquered barbarism.

Mayor Hartsfield, voicing Atlanta's pleasure in celebrating with members of the Greek community, said that he looks with pride "upon the many Greek-American boys in the uniforms of the United States." He commended the Greeks for their participation in every charity and war effort made in Atlanta, and pointed out that he will welcome the day when Americans celebrate the "liberation not only of Greece but of all nations."

CHURCH'S RITUAL

Continuing the church ritual, Pastor Constantinides served Mayor Hartsfield a piece of blessed bread. Next he asked members of the armed forces to come to the altar and receive their portion of the bread.

Persons in the congregation who did not understand Greek caught the true heart of the celebration when the priest moved forward on the altar, raised his hands and looked upward as he spoke several words in Greek.

The key word was "zeto."

He said: "Zeto" America. The congregation responded, "Zeto." Priest: "Zeto" Greece. Congregation: "Zeto." Priest: "Zeto" the Greek community of Atlanta, Ga. Congregation: "Zeto." "Zeto" "long live."

TWO GENERATIONS

Many members of the Greek community have received messages from their relatives in the old country since Athens fell. All communications come through the Red Cross, church officials disclosed. Gathered to celebrate the end of starvation, degradation and ruthless death were many born in the old country with sons and daughters born in America. All raised their thoughts and prayers for the safety of their relatives now living in free Greece, and for the safety of their fighting men all over the world.

Congregation members remembered Petro Dodys, the only gold star on their service flag. He died in service in England. And many voiced their prayers for James Chotas, who is missing in action in the Pacific theater.

Four Missionaries Named by Baptists

The Southern Baptist Home Mission Board has extended mission work in Central America by appointment of four new missionaries in Costa Rica. Dr. J. B. Lawrence, executive secretary, announced the following appointments: Rev. and Mrs. Manuel Garcia, Nocoya, Costa Rica, and Rev. and Mrs. Manuel Mendoza, Puriscal, Costa Rica.

Four additional missionaries were appointed for work in the States. They are Rev. T. V. Herndon, Lake Charles, Fla.; Rev. W. K. Wood, Ashland, Ky.; Rev. Jose A. Gonzalez, Lubbock, Texas, and Rev. Trinidad Cano, Kingsville, Texas.

Girl, 4, Is Injured In Collision With Car

Shirley Ann Sorrells, 4-year-old daughter of Rubin J. Sorrells, of 211 Georgia avenue, S. E., is in fair condition at Grady hospital after suffering a fractured skull and bruises when police were told she ran into the side of a passing car near her home.

Police records listed Robert H. Bagwell, of 366 Cameron street, S. E., as driver of the car. Witnesses said the child barely missed being run over by a car just before she collided with the machine driven by Bagwell yesterday.

Legion To Hold Services Nov. 11 At Five Points

National memorial services of the American Legion will be held at Five Points at 11 a. m. Saturday, November 11.

Commanders and adjutants of the Legion posts, fifth area State Defense Corps units, Army and Navy units and organizations, veterans, patriotic and civic organizations, schools and colleges have been invited to participate in the services, Legion officials disclosed yesterday.

Members of the Legion and Veterans' organizations will assemble at 10:30 a. m. at 31 Pryor street, S. W., and march with the Atlanta Post No. 1 Drum and Bugle Corps to Five Points.

Col. Ralph W. Rogers, chaplain, Fourth Service Command, will open the program with prayer, followed by taps. Maj. Gen. Uhl, commanding general, Fourth Service Command, will deliver a five-minute speech followed by a concert by the Legion Drum and Bugle Corps.

The Gate City Post announced plans for a program in the Dixie ballroom, Henry Grady hotel, at 8 p. m. Music will be furnished by the U. S. Naval Station mixed voice choir.

Speakers on this program include Chaplain Milton B. Faust, USN, who will deliver the memorial address, and John M. Slaton Jr., manager and director of the Veterans' Administration in Georgia. The Salvation Army will lead the congregation in an old-time community sing of war songs.

ROCKMART, Ga., Nov. 5.—A modern five-room school building for Negroes will be erected at Rockmart at an early date, it is announced by County Supt. Kankakee Anderson, following notification that the application had been approved by the federal government, which will finance the $39,000 building.

Saed Ouster Agitated In Iran, Tass Reports

MOSCOW, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The Soviet news agency Tass in a dispatch from Teheran today said agitation was continuing in northern Iran for the ouster of Premier Mohammed Saed and that one person was killed and another wounded when Iran soldiers fired upon a "peaceful demonstration" against the present government at Tabriz last week.

Russia has been critical of the Saed regime since it announced Oct. 19 that all discussion of oil concessions to the Soviet Union, the United States and Great Britain would be postponed until after the war.

Besides the shooting at Tabriz "bloody events" occurred at Isfaha and Shakrud, the Tass report said.

A Soviet dispatch from Teheran was reported earlier today in London by Reuter's as saying Saed will send a delegation to Moscow next week to discuss the dispute over the oil concessions.

WE MUST NOT FAIL AGAIN...

26 years ago we signed an Armistice, a treaty to abolish wars.

Today we stand on the brink of another Peace,
A Peace to follow the bloodiest war of the world's history.

We are an anxious people, anxious for our Peace.
Yet we must beware, lest our anxiety
Lead us to the pitfalls of another false agreement.

Unless we wait for the complete surrender of our enemies,
We plot the death of another generation.
Unless we have the complete understanding of our Allies,
We build for the destruction of the future.
Unless we concentrate our faith, our hope, our complete determination
To enforce the Peace we've won with blood,
We shall be held accountable for the demolition of the world.

AS WE OBSERVE THE 26TH ANNIVERSARY OF OUR FIRST WORLD ARMISTICE. WE MUST AVOID A SECOND FAILURE...

RICH'S

MY DAY . . . . By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Friday.—We listened to my husband's speech last night, and I do feel sorry that he has not been able to leave Washington this week. Every woman knows, however, that the choice between first things and second things must be made almost daily in everybody's life. If a child is sick, you subordinate everything else in the house to the care of the child. If the country is at war, there are bound to be a constant number of little problems as well as big ones, but even the little ones may not be shirked.

I do not think, however, that making campaign speeches and traveling to different places is time wasted. I have a feeling that every public servant should renew his contact with the people as often as possible when he is in office, and this is doubly true when a campaign is going on. It is only through the actual sight and feel of the crowds that the man in public life really gets to know what the people who back him believe in. I have known men who could sit at home and read the newspapers from all over the country and get a fair idea of what men and women everywhere really wanted. I think this is a useful thing to do, of course, and should be cultivated. But nothing speaks to the heart like personal contact, and every leader must know the hearts of the people who follow him, as well as their intellectual convictions.

A lady from California wrote me an amusing little anecdote. It is about her little daughter, who once fell into conversation with an elderly woman and made a discovery! "Know what, Mummy?" she said after the conversation. "That woman isn't grown up." Rather baffled, her mother asked her how she knew, and the child replied: "'Cause she didn't vote."

Then my correspondent went on to tell me that they make it a family custom to take the children with them when they go to the polls on election day. The children hear the political discussions on the way to the polls and back; they meet people who differ in their political points of view, and, most important of all, they learn that when you are grown up, you vote—which becomes for them a sign of maturity.

I think this idea of family voting experience, even when a child is very young, is an excellent one.

The WORRY CLINIC

Interesting Facts About Insanity

(What is the most dreaded disease in the world? It is insanity! Most people at some time or other worry lest they may become its victims. Be sure to read this case record today to obtain the facts about this ogre which devours human peace of mind. Most of the dread of insanity is unnecessary and unfounded. Free yourself today from misapprehensions about your mind, and you'll be able to face the world henceforth with much more poise and self-assurance.)

"Several years ago I was in an audience which you addressed he began our discussion.

"During the opening forum following your speech, I remember you gave a splendid answer to the question about whether insanity was hereditary.

"On several occasions the past few months I have heard people arguing about the subject. I wish you'd repeat those remarks you made in your speech, for I have forgotten some of the data."

DIAGNOSIS

Insanity is called a psychosis. Most of the people who worry because they think they have symptoms of this dreaded condition, are really neurotic, not psychotic. They have a neurosis.

They may be afraid of high places or of lightning and thunder. Or they dread going out of the house alone, or may even daydream murderous thoughts about some of their own kin. Or they worry about auto eroticism.

Such people, however, are not showing the symptoms of insanity. They are perfectly normal in their intelligence, but are simply enmeshed in emotional conflicts.

They may require some professional advice to attain peace of mind and happiness, but they need not worry about going insane, even if they don't get such psychological counsel.

ARE YOU AFRAID?

Literally millions of people at one time or another work themselves up to a frenzy of worry about the subject of insanity. Then they get doubly scared lest their fretting about the subject will actually bring on insanity.

I can relieve your apprehension at once on this point by saying that the mind is just as difficult to lose by worrying, as is your hand.

You know very well that worry will not cause your hand to drop off. Neither will it make you lose your mind, so snap out of your doldrums.

Many types of insanity result from chemical poisons and infection. Syphilis, for example, is a fruitful cause, for the germs of this disease can attack the brain just as well as the blood vessels.

But don't get alarmed, even if you have syphilis, for diligent medical treatments will kill the germs. Once they are destroyed and you have a negative Kahn or Wassermann, you can cease worrying. Dead spirochetes, or syphilitic germs, cannot harm your mind.

BEWARE OF SCHIZOPHRENIA

Schizophrenia, formerly called dementia precox, is one very common type of insanity for which we can find no chemical or infectious origin.

It is likely to strike in late adolescence and attacks bright but shy or introvertive boys and girls. They begin drifting into a daydream state that becomes chronic.

Day-dreamers haven't enough external pleasures and possessions to keep their attention anchored to reality. See that such children have many and pleasant ties to the external world so they will not wish to flee from it.

As for heredity, we know that chemical, toxic and germ-caused psychoses are never inherited. And we are growing very dubious about the inheritance of any other type of insanity.

Double Chin Corrected by Right Exercise

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

Overeating is the most popular way of getting a double chin. Before you can believe it, the excess calories are converted into fat and there they are, under the chin!

There's a reason. Fat collects faster on the muscles that are softest. The throat column is seven-eighths muscle, little ones and big ones, and about the only exercise they get is in nodding "yes" to the question whether or not you'll take dessert.

But there are other ways of acquiring spare chins, and all of them stem from incorrect head carriage. That is why so many thin girls have what look incongruously like double chins!

Reading, knitting or typing, if done with the chin tucked under, is bound to promote a chin droop. It is the habit of holding the head wrong that does the damage. In reading, knitting, or anything of the kind, the book or yarn should be held up. A good rule is to bring the bottom of the book up to the level of the chin. It is easier on the eyes, too.

Of course, a girl can't hold up the typewriter! The trick there is to bend forward from the hips instead of bending in sections. Try always to keep a nice, straight line from the top of the head to the base of the spine. It is infinitely less tiring and so much more beautifying.

The ways of getting rid of a double chin are as infallible as those of getting one! Most important is the correction of the head carriage. Work on that line at the back of the neck to straighten it out. Make a conscious effort to pull up with the back of the neck as you walk along. The chin should be carried level, always. It should not be tucked in, or thrust out, or held up.

Exercise does the rest. Stretch the neck up, head squarely on shoulders. Still stretching, turn the head slowly to look back over left shoulder. Do not lower the chin or relax the muscles of the throat. From that angle, tilt the chin upward and look at the ceiling. Slowly return to front position, keeping neck stretched, throat muscles tensed, then look over the right shoulder. Perform the exercise slowly, four times. Finish by dashing cold water over the throat for a skin astringent.

Any girl who will do this one exercise when she enters a room, and will keep her calories within reason, can have a lovely throatline until she has acquired so much philosophy that a double chin doesn't matter.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

LIME WATER

Why can't one take a tablespoonful, more or less, of lime water instead of all these calcium pills or tables? Yes, of course we need the vitamins, but we are getting them all the time in various foods. (G. B. E.)

Answer—I'm afraid we don't get much vitamin D in our foods, and D is essential for utilization of calcium (lime) whether in food or in medicine. Lime water contains scarcely as much calcium as milk does. If you wish to get the rights of the calcium (lime) question send stamped self addressed envelope and ask for (no clipping, please) pamphlet "The Calcium Shortage."

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS.

March 21-April 19 (ARIES)—Personal affairs and interest of a wider scope may show a tendency toward strain, animosity, or you may be inclined to overdo. Therefore, the day does not especially favor new beginnings.

April 20-May 20 (TAURUS)—The entire day will be an auspicious one to find support and attain favors. Plan to go after the things you desire in finances, professional and literary pursuits. An excellent day for making progress.

June 21-June 30 (GEMINI)—Before 1:30 p. m. holds conservative influences, favoring affairs of a substantial nature. You may have opportunities to accomplish something towards your highest ideals. Good will and co-operation should be more easily attained.

June 21-July 22 (CANCER)—Depressive influences may prevail today. Be determined in the face of difficulties. Keep cheerful regardless. The best aspects of the day operate after 11 a. m.

July 23-Aug. 22 (LEO)—A number of influences prevail which will bring a steadiness into your life. Artistic ideas, drugs, liquids, mechanical pursuits are especially favored. A favorable day for work and ideas of a humanitarian nature.

Aug. 23-Sept. 22 (VIRGO)—During the morning hours and until 4:56 p. m. is a favorable time for obtaining the confidence of people who are in power. After 4:56 p. m. the calmness of the morning seems displaced with a feeling of impatience. Good time to stick to routine.

Sept. 23-Oct. 22 (LIBRA)—Previous to noon favors dealings with those in advanced or superior positions. If you want to attain a material or business triumph, sea what you can do about it this morning. During the remainder of the day more will be accomplished by acting with deliberation.

Oct. 23-Nov. 21 (SCORPIO)—The most important time of the day for taking important action along all lines seems to be after 1:35 p. m. An excellent period for constructive work in matters of finance and personal advancement.

Nov. 22-Dec. 21 (SAGITTARIUS)—This is a day to lay solid foundations for the future. Your judgment will be capracious, premature and unsound. Go slow on new ideas.

Dec. 22-Jan. 19 (CAPRICORN)—During the entire day you will have more than usual capacity for work that requires an alert mentality. You can introduce new methods in the things you are attempting and transactions started today will be active and meet unlooked for developments for good.

Jan. 20-Feb. 18 (AQUARIUS)—Before 2:38 p. m., but especially between 8:38 a. m. and 2:38 p. m. you can be as active as you desire, for you will not only encounter people with engaging personalities, but you will be filled with high asperations that have a substantial basis.

Feb. 19-March 20 (PISCUS)—The influences predominating today bring an optimism and hopeful frame of mind, making this a favorable day for attending to affairs that call for aggressiveness, initiatiev and muscular energy.

Special election returns by private wire, direct from Radio Station WAGA, will be broadcast over the public address system at the Shine Circus next Tuesday evening.

ON THE AIR

By PAUL JONES

Three major election eve broadcasts, featuring talks by the two presidential candidates and other notables, will be heard over the combined networks, and Atlanta's four radio stations tonight.

President Roosevelt, and others, supporting the Democratic ticket, will be heard in a full hour broadcast to be heard over WGST, WSB, WAGA and WATL beginning at 9 p. m.

Dewey will speak for 15 minutes over the same combination of stations, except WATL, beginning at 10 p. m. and the Democratic party will sponsor another broadcast beginning at 11 p. m. over WAGA, WSB and WATL.

Dr. Will Durant, author and philosopher who will lecture at Agnes Scott college Thursday night, will be guest "expert" on the Information Please broadcast to be heard at 8:30 p. m. on WSB.

Another guest, Author Christopher Morley will join regulars John Kieran and Franklin P. Adams in the questions-and-answers program.

Frank Morgan and little Margaret O'Brien will be co-starred in a radio version of the screen hit, "The Pied Piper" which will be heard over the Cecil B. DeMille theater at 8 p. m.—WGST. It's a story of a crusty old Englishman caught in France at the outbreak of the war, and whose demeanor is softened as he shepherds a group of refugee children through the Nazi lines to safety.

Continuing its policy of featuring great name entertainers in great plays, the Cavalcade of America program will present Loretta Young in a radio adaptation of "Jane Addams: Woman of Courage" during the show at 7 p. m.—WSB tonight. Walter Huston will be host and narrator.

Church Guild To Meet

Dr. Albert D. Stauffacher, minister of the missions council of the Congregational Christian Churches in the U. S. A., will speak to the Women's Guild of Central Congregational church at the meeting at the church on Wednesday at 12:30 p. m. Mrs. Thomas Anderson, program chairman, will be hostess for the luncheon.

Miss Washburn Weds Sgt. Weldon

FORT MYERS, Fla.—Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Washburn, of Fort Myers, Fla., of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Wilma Washburn, to George T. Weldon, sergeant, U. S. A. A. F., formerly of Atlanta, which was solemnized recently at the parish house of St. Francis Xavier church. Rev. Father J. J. O'Piordan officiated.

The bride wore a tailored white silk dress with white accessories. Her flowers were white roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Ruth Washburn, who wore a dress of rose crepe, with matching accessories, and a bouquet of roses. Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at an informal reception at their home in Royal Palm Park.

Mrs. Weldon, a graduate of Fort Myers High school, has for several years assisted her sister in the operation of Washburn's pharmacy.

Sgt. Weldon is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Walter Colquitt Weldon, of Griffin. His sisters are Mrs. Jesse O. Futral, of Griffin, and Mrs. James T. Smith Jr., of Atlanta. His brothers are Frank Weldon, of New Orleans, La.; Philip Weldon, Griffin; Cpl. Lewis Weldon, U. S. M. C., Quantico, Va., and Sgt. Robert Weldon, U. S. A. A. F., stationed in England.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Georgia Tech and the Woodrow Wilson School of Law. Before entering the service he was employed by the Southern Railway. He has recently been transferred to Mather Field, Sacramento, Cal., where Mrs. Weldon will join him at an early date.

Merchants Are Invited to Visit New Apaco Specialties Display Rooms

Hardware, Drug, Gift and Other Items Displayed

Atlanta Paper Company specialties division now has larger quantities and wider assortments of merchandise displayed in the new wholesale showrooms located at 21 Haynes street, N. W., in the A., B. & C. terminal warehouse building. This warehouse, located just off Mitchell street near the Terminal station, is a convenient downtown headquarters for both local and out-of-town buyers. Many types of drug sundries, leather novelties, notions, toys, school and home supplies, paper specialties and frozen food boxes are in the line of Apaco specialties. Department stores, drug stores, grocers, variety stores, jewelers and other merchants may now secure a speedy delivery through the large and highly efficient distributive facilities of this Atlanta Paper Company specialties division. An especially large stock of toys is ready for the holiday season.

In charge of Apaco specialties are Frank Olver and Joseph B. Fatman, veteran Atlanta Paper Company executives. Mr. Olver will handle all purchases and merchandising. Mr. Fatman will assist in sales for the specialties division. On the Apaco specialties sales staff are A' Walker, Guy Tumlin, Mrs. Nell Bollinger, Lewis Sloan and Joe Connally—all well known in the field of merchandising and selling in Atlanta.

Apaco specialties are also offered to merchants outside of the Atlanta area through Atlanta Paper Company branches: Augusta Paper Company, Augusta, Ga.; Bibb Paper Company, Macon, Ga.; Georgia - Alabama Paper Company, Columbus, Ga., and Volunteer State Paper & Box Company, Knoxville, Tenn. Two other associate companies of Atlanta Paper Company are Little Rock Paper Company at Little Rock, Ark., and Memphis Paper Company at Memphis, Tenn.

Through its long history of 76 years in business Atlanta Paper Company has dealt in specialties along with its manufacture and distribution of corrugated shipping containers, folding boxes and other paper products. New emphasis on Apaco specialties now, at a time when many merchants throughout the south need business expansion to meet economic transitions ahead, provides a welcome source of buying the many items in the Apaco specialties line.

Telephone number of the new Atlanta Paper Company specialties division is Jackson 0505.

Mr. Fatman and Mr. Olver state that the Atlanta Paper Company warehouses are better equipped than ever before to supply merchants with famous Apaco specialties on prompt deliveries.

By PRESS HUDDLESTON.

Starting off their grand opening Saturday with a hot chicken dinner, followed throughout the afternoon by delightful refreshments and dainty lunches, Lee Products Company, 437 Whitehall street, thoroughly entertained some 500 to 600 jobbers from Georgia and other states from over the south.

The opening in this new and enlarged business home was a most delightful occasion, and the three Atlanta business men who have built the company into one of the city's recognized and dependable institutions—L. D. Friedland, Harry S. Goldstein and J. H. Goldstein, two brothers—were greatly pleased at the presence of so many of their jobber patrons and other friends.

The big building into which the company has lately moved into in order to care for the fast increasing trade, was prettily decorated, largely by scores of artistic and handsome floral offerings sent in by friends of the company. These all bore cheering and catchy cards of congratulations for the splendid success the three founders have made of the business in the nine years of its establishment.

The hundreds of jobbers, while appreciating the social and personal side of the occasion, were muchly interested in strolling through the floors of the large new business home, inspecting the big line of standard merchandise they are now offered by the Lee Products Company. There was little—in fact, no—sales pressure on visitors. The owners of the company wanted simply to meet and greet their jobber friends and show them the type of merchandise—and the variety—available for them.

Of course, there were a number of displays that were unique and interesting, but none, perhaps, received more attention than the display of Lee razor blades, a product that has caught the eye of retail merchants, and from their purchases from the Lee company has placed it in the forefront of such products.

All three of the founders—Messrs. Friedland and the two Goldstein brothers—who have accomplished so much in the past nine years, were proud to meet and welcome their jobber patrons and other friends, and to show them of the service and merchandise ready for them in the future.

Noboil Helps Prevent Spread Of Colds and Flu

Although this fresh, full strength germicide bleach and disinfectant has long been the favorite washday aid among Atlanta housewives, many of them are probably not aware of a most important use it can be put to. It kills germs quickly, and, therefore, when used according to the simple directions on the bottle to sterilize dishes, towels and other things handled by some member of the family with a cold it helps to prevent the spread of colds to other family members. To those housewives who now have a bottle of Noboil in their pantry, we suggest that you read the directions and learn how easily you can help to keep annoying and dangerous colds from spreading in your family with Noboil.

LIGHTENS HOUSEWORK

Housewives find Noboil an indispensable washday aid. It lightens their laundry tasks by eliminating the tiresome boiling and hard rubbing usually needed to obtain white clothes when soap alone is used. Also, it removes stubborn strains and grease spots without boiling or hard rubbing, thereby prolonging the life of white clothes, delicate linens and other fast color fabrics. Noboil makes many other household tasks quicker and easier to do. It removes stains from sinks, tubs and tile like magic. It even helps clean and deodorize drains.

Noboil is a favorite, too, because it is so economical. It is sold by all leading grocers for only 12 cents for a full quart. You save on Noboil because you do not have to pay for the bottle. You make a 5-cent deposit, which is refunded when the bottle is returned . . . or there is no deposit when you return the empty bottle with your new purchase.

Considering the quantity, quality and freshness of Noboil you will find that it is the most economical bleach and household germicide to be had in Atlanta. Remember, too, that full strength and freshness are most important in all bleaches because the chemicals used in making them diminish with age. You are assured of freshness in Noboil because it is made right here in Atlanta every day. Furthermore, despite the fact that these chemicals are rationed, the high quality and full strength of Noboil is the same as before the war. Therefore, to avoid disappointment in a bleach always insist on genuine Noboil—Atlanta's favorite household bleach, germicide and disinfectant.

SHE KNOWS ITS USES—Just as many housewives know the merits and uses of Noboil, so does Mrs. Martha Whitenton, an Atlanta housewife, know and appreciates all the good purposes for which it can be used—and she uses it for many.

Can Make 100,000 More Envelopes Every Day Now

One hundred thousand more envelopes per day will now be made in the plant of the Atlanta Envelope Company with this new machine, recently manufactured and installed under government priority.

This high-speed machine is the latest style designed for envelope manufacture, incorporating rapid production, accuracy of folding, and smooth gumming. It is one of only five machines built during the war for operation in essential envelope plants.

Atlanta Envelope Company, for over 50 years producers of quality commercial envelopes, has installed this new machine as a part of its postwar program for expanding its manufacturing facilities to meet the growing demands of southern industry. Atlanta Envelope Company is Atlanta-born, owned and operated.

Electrical Equipment Is Featured

W. T. Shackelford Company Is Now Settled in Peachtree Street Home

By PRESS HUDDLESTON.

With plans and facilities now complete for serving the present needs of its customers, and geared for a postwar expansion, the W. T. Shackelford Company is destined to be numbered among the leading and outstanding distributors of electrical equipment throughout the whole of the southeast.

The company, of which W. T. Shackelford is owner, is now well settled in its new three-story building at 393 Peachtree street, and is pleased to announce that it has now in its stock ready for sale and delivery Coroaire oil-fired heaters—the heater that is well sloganed, "A Mountain of Heat in a Capsule"—with all sizes for home and office; also all manner of refrigeration equipment, such as frozen food cabinets, walk-in and reach-in coolers; ventilating fans; a few ice cream machines; and in addition maintains one of the best equipped refrigeration repair shops in the south, with Reyn-o-Cell insulation also a feature with the company.

In its new building the company occupies more than 18,000 square feet of floor space which includes offices, display rooms, service department, and warehouse. Another large warehouse is also maintained at 397 Peachtree street. Mr. Shackelford reports sales in October as the largest in the history of his company.

The company was established seven years ago. It has grown from a small firm to one of the largest and best known dealers and distributors in Georgia. Throughout that entire time the name of Shackelford has gradually become synonymous with high quality electrical and refrigeration equipment, and thousands of Georgians are now acquainted with the firm's efficient, reliable service.

Mr. Shackelford, in discussing the past and future of his company, gives this assurance to all those interested in electrical and refrigeration matters:

"Even under today's difficult conditions this store has at all times rendered the best service obtainable. We have done it promptly and cheerfully. We shall in the future—in war or peace—endeavor to merit your friendship and confidence by the character of our work and the integrity of our transactions. We can help you with any problem involving insulation, electric fans, washing machines, ironers, ventilating and exhaust fans, domestic and commercial heating."

In offering its Coroaire oil fired heaters, the company claims such outstanding features as heats, filters, purifies, cleanses, deodorizes, humidifies, revitalizes, circulates yielding compact, low-priced, unbelievable economy. The large size heater will operate full blast for one hour on one quart of kerosene, one pint for smaller size. A stove certificate is necessary to purchase one.

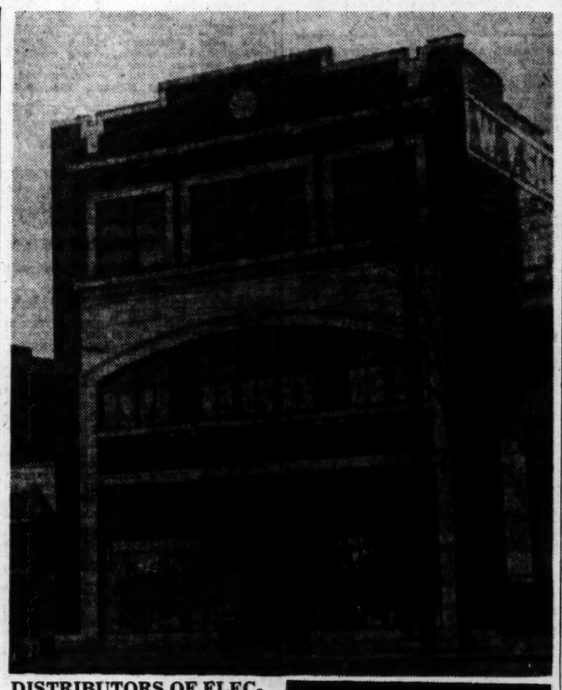
For insulating roof or attic there is nothing better than Reyn-o-Cell cotton insulation, is the claim of the company.

Deyn-o-Cell insulation is flameproof, water-repellant, insect-proof. Its extremely light weight protects your ceilings, saves approximately 30 per cent of your fuel bill, and keeps the home cooler in the summer. The savings on your fuel bill will pay the cost of the insulation. Payments are as low as $5 monthly. You can install yourself or have it installed by the company on easy monthly payments.

The company also calls attention to its limited supply of electric dishwashers for hotels and restaurants. No priority is needed to purchase one.

When peacetime production is resumed, the W. T. Shackelford Company will offer its dealers and retail customers a full and complete line of electrical equipment. The concern's postwar expansion plans embrace the entire state of Georgia, and Tennessee as well.

Mr. Shackelford announced that E. S. Caverly, well known Atlanta businessman, has become associated with him as a special assistant. Mr. Caverly has just returned from a trip throughout the state acquainting dealers with the firm's postwar plans. A few outlets are still available and alert dealers will find it to their advantage to contact the W. T. Shackelford Company, 393 Peachtree street, VE. 4718.



DISTRIBUTORS OF ELECTRICAL EQUIPMENT—Above is the new business home of the W. T. Shackelford Company, known throughout the southeast as distributors of electrical and all manner of refrigeration equipment. The company is ready now for quick and prompt service on many lines, and in addition is geared for a postwar expansion that will add greatly to its service in the future.

Harry Sunshine Invites Farmers

Harry Sunshine, owner of the Sunshine department store, 795 Marietta street, N. W., extends a special invitation to farmers and their families to come in this week and look over the variety of merchandise they are offering for the entire family.

"We have wearing apparel, furnishings for every member of the family, at budget-saving prices," says Mr. Sunshine, "and we will be happy for you to come in and shop around at your leisure."

A few of the outstanding buys offered by this well-stocked store are found in the piece goods department, where they have a good selection of fast-color dress prints; misses' and women's coats are also featured in all styles and price ranges, and a limited supply of 42-inch sheeting is also offered. Many other bargains and hard-to-get items are to be found in the Sunshine department store.

Visit genial Harry Sunshine at 795 Marietta street and you're sure to benefit from your visit.

Milk Price Ceiling

ROCKMART, Ga., Nov. 5.—The local Office of Price Administration has announced that the retail price of milk in Rockmart has been placed at 16 cents per quart, whether sold over the counter or delivered to the door.

Two Georgians Die in Action, Three Reported Wounded

Two more Georgians have been killed in action, and three have been wounded, according to War Department messages to their families.

Killed:

PVT. JOHN J. COUCH, previously reported missing, was killed in action in Germany October 9, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Couch, of 1224 McLendon avenue, have been notified.

Pvt. Couch wos formerly associated with Hall Clothing Stores, Jackson, Tenn.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by his wife, Catherine; his daughter, Joan; three sisters, Mrs. Mary Bradley, Mrs. A. F. Maley, of Atlanta, and Mrs. George Pierce, of Augusta; and two brothers, Connie B. Couch, of Atlanta, and R. M. Couch, of Miami.

PVT. ALLEN F. STEVENS, 35, infantry, was killed in action October 4 in France, the War Department has notified his mother, Mrs. Addie Stevens, of Carlton, and his father, O. A. Stevens, of Los Angeles, Cal.

Entering the service February 10, 1944, he received his basic training at Fort McClellan, Ala.

Stevens received his education at Carlton High school, Riverside Military Academy and Georgia Tech. He worked in Los Angeles for 12 years, later returning home to be with his mother before entering the service.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by a sister, Mrs. B. F. Witcher, of Athens, and a nephew, Billy Witcher.

Wounded:

SGT. LUTHER WILBURN SMITH, 24, infantry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther H. Smith, of Route 2, Chipley, was wounded in action September 8 in France, and is now in a hospital in England where he has been awarded the Purple Heart and the Silver Star for gallantry in action.

Entering the service in August, 1942, he received his training at Fort McClellan, Ala.; Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.; Desert Maneuver Area and Camp Forrest, Tenn., before leaving for active duty overseas in December, 1943.

Sgt. Smith has a brother, Dillard Eugene Smith, serving with a medical detachment in England, and a sister, Virginia Lee Smith, commercial student in Atlanta.

PVT. JULIAN O. COLQUITT, son of Mrs. Annie B. Colquitt, of Crawford, was seriously wounded in action October 2 in Germany.

Overseas only two months when wounded, Pvt. Colquitt has been sent back to a hospital in England. Volunteering for service in September, 1942, he received his training at Fort Eustis, Va.; Fort Benning, Ga., and Camp McCain, Miss. He was stationed at Fort Meade, Md., prior to going overseas.

CAPT. JAMES ALBERT QUILLIAN, son of the Rev. Frank Quillian, of 808 Elizabeth place, N. W., was wounded for the second time September 14, with the field artillery in the European theater. He had been wounded July 8 and had received the Purple Heart.

John J. Couch.

Luther W. Smith.

Russian Stores Cut Prices 30 Pct.

MOSCOW, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Russian commercial stores, whose entire stocks are excluded from rationing controls, reduced prices of all articles 30 per cent today as the nation prepared to celebrate the 27th anniversary of the Red revolution November 7.

The commercial stores first opened early in 1944, selling commodities at many times the price of those obtained with ration cards.

Step Taken To Allot Newsprint in France

PARIS, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Taking the first step to adjust the distribution of a limited quantity of newsprint among France's papers, the ministry of information has instituted a system of semi-monthly circulation reports to gauge the newspapers' popularity.

With liberation, when 15 dailies sprouted in Paris alone, an emergency system of approximately equal distribution of newsprint was adopted. They still are receiving only enough newsprint for a single sheet, two-page issue.

All Georgia Workers Urged To Cast Votes

Henry W. Chandler, president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, wants all workers in Georgia to set aside other duties long enough to vote tomorrow.

In a statement issued to members of the federation, Chandler urged every member to vote, regardless of party affiliation, pointing out "voting is a most vital duty, with so many fellow trade-unionists in the armed forces and unable to vote."
